M'KINLEY OPENS PEACE JUBILEE

Chicago's Celebration Inaugurated with Thanksgiving Service.

PRESIDENT CHEERED TO THE ECHO

Twelve Thousand People Attend the Opening Exercises and Listen to Speeches in Which the Chief Executive Is Praised.

Chicago, October 16.—The National Peace Jubilee of Chicago was tonight inaugurated with a union thanksgiving service at the Auditorium. President McKinley attended and listened to addresses by a Jewish rabbi, a Roman Catholic priest, a Presbyterian clergyman and a noted colored orator. The applause for the president was terrific and at one time he was compelled to arise in his box and respond to the frantic cheering of the audience. The services, however, were of a religious character, and at times the solemn silence of the vast assemblage was much more eloquent than the wildest applause could be.

The president rested during a great part of the day at the residence of Captain Lafayette McWilliams, his relative, where he is being entertained. He did not attend church in the morning. For a short time in the afternoon he and his wife were taken for a drive. The party was driven to the Auditorium at 8 o'clock and all along the way people lined the streets to watch the passage of the president's carriage. Easily 12,000 people were within the great Auditorium and probably as many more were on the outside unable to obtain admission. The president was seated in a box on the left of the auditorium. Elaborate music had been prepared for the meeting.

Rabbi Starts the Applause.

The first address was by Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch, who brought out a great burst of enthusiasm by reference to President McKinley. Dr. Hirsch said:

We are proud that when war was imminent the affairs of the nation were in the hands of a man——

a true American that loved peace.

Loud cheers followed Dr. Hirsch's statement of his sentiments in reference to territorial acquisition when he said:

Constitutionalism, not colonial dependency, must be the watchword of the war in relation to the countries delivered from Spanish rule.

Rev. Dr. Thomas P. Hodnell, a Catholic clergyman, caught the fancy and applause of the audience by repeated reference to Dewey, Sampson, Schley and the rough riders, and when he mentioned President McKinley by name the people became so demonstrative that the president was compelled to rise in his box and bow his acknowledgments. At the conclusion of his address Dr. Hodnell aroused much enthusiasm by a philippic against the "growing influence of monopoly and the cohesive power of the unjust corporations."

One of the most stirring speeches of the evening was made by Rev. Dr. John Henry Barrows, who took a firm stand in favor of the retention of the Philippines, which sentiment appeared to meet entirely the approbation of the audience.

Booker T. Washington was the last speaker. He said in part:

This country has been most fortunate in her victories. She has twice measured arms with England and has won. She has met the proud Spaniard and he lies prostrate at her feet. All this is well; it is magnificent. But there remains one other victory for Americans to win—a victory as far reaching and as important as any that has occupied our army and navy. We have succeeded in every conflict except to conquer ourselves in the blotting out of racial prejudices. We can celebrate the era of peace in no more effectual way than by a firm resolve on the part of northern men and southern men, black and white men, that the trenches which we together dug around Santiago shall be the eternal burial place of all that which separates us in our business and civil relations. Let us be as generous in peace as we have been brave in battle. Until we thus conquer ourselves I make no empty statement when I say we shall have, especially in the southern part of our country, a cancer gnawing at the heart of this republic that shall one day prove as dangerous as an attack from an army from without or within.

In this presence and on this auspicious occasion I want to present the deep gratitude of nearly 10,000,000 of my people to our wise, patient and brave chief executive for the generous manner in which my race has been recognized during this conflict—a recognition that has done more to blot out sectional and racial lines than any event since the day of our freedom.

When Washington gave expression to these words the most interesting feature of the evening occurred. The audience rose and cheered to the echo. President McKinley, standing in his box, acknowledged by repeated bows the compliment of the colored orator.

Tomorrow for the most part of the day the president will be the guest of the University of Chicago, from which institution he will receive the degree of LL.D.

DEGREE FOR THE PRESIDENT.

University of Chicago Will Make Mr. McKinley an LL. D.

Chicago, October 16.—The degree of LL.D. will be conferred on President McKinley tomorrow in the University of Chicago.

The president and his party will be entertained at luncheon by President and Mrs. Harper, of the university, at their residence and afterwards, accompanied by the trustees and faculty of the institution, will proceed to Haskell museum, where the president will be created a doctor of laws and invested with the gown and hood pertaining to that scholastic rank. Then the president will lead a procession of the university faculties, fellows and counselors across the campus to Kent theater, where other ceremonies will take place.

All the students of the university, the graduate schools, the divinity schools, the senior and junior colleges, the medical college and the various affiliated preparatory schools will furnish an escort for the president, who, in his cap and gown, will afterwards review them.

EIGHT NEW CASES AT JACKSON.

Jackson, Miss., October 16.—The Jackson record of new cases of yellow fever for today was eight, as follows:

W. E. Davidson, Otto Galle, Lonnie Cloud, Callio Cloud, Professor Moore, Otto Johnson and two negroes.

There were no deaths, though some of the sick are seriously ill.

Another case is announced at Tougaloo, six miles north of Jackson, a Mr. Miles, white.

Dr. Purnell, who investigated suspicious sickness at Yazoo City, reports today that he found six cases of genuine yellow fever there—five negroes and one white in the southwestern part of the city.

Dr. Guice announces one case of yellow fever at Meridian and two suspicious cases. The state board of health official report from other points is as follows:

Poplarville, seven new cases and one death.

Madison, no new cases; one critically ill.

Hattiesburg, no new cases; five suspicious cases outside cordon.

Natchez, three new cases. The fever is now in every ward of the city.

Harriston, two new cases; three critically ill; one death, Mrs. Jennie Lowe.

Edwards reports two cases one mile west and four cases four miles north of town in the Fox family.

Oxford reports one new case and one death. Fifteen now under treatment.

Wyman Addresses Club in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, October 16.—Dr. Walter Wyman, surgeon general of the United States hospital service, addressed the Commercial Club, of this city, last night on "Quarantine and Commerce" and tonight left for the south on a general tour to investigate the yellow fever conditions and report on the same before the assembling of congress.

FIRE IN PANA COAL MINES.

One Negro Inside the Stockade Shoots Another Fatally.

Pana, Ill., October 16.—A fire is burning in Pana Coal Campany's shaft No. 1. It was started by an explosion of gas in the north entry at noon yesterday, and so far it has been impossible for the company to extinguish.

This evening at 5:40 o'clock John Hawkins, a negro miner employed at Pana shaft No. 1, fatally shot Isaiah Ross, also colored, as the result of an all day quarrel.

Major Butler, commanding the militia, will disarm the negroes tomorrow.

ALL FIVE WERE FOUND DEAD.

Galician Man and Four Children Murdered—Wife Missing.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, October 16.—A Dominion City dispatch to The Free Press says a cold-blooded butchery took place in the Galician settlement, east of there, some time within the last twenty-four hours. A Galician man and his four children were found dead in their house by a neighbor. The wife is missing and is suspected to be guilty of the crime. The weapon used was an ax. The man's head was nearly severed from his body and the children's bodies were more or less mutilated.

SPANISH CABINET CONVENES.

Letter from Member of Peace Commission Is Read.

Madrid, October 16.—At a meeting of the cabinet council today a letter was read from Senor Montero Rios, president of the Spanish peace commission at Paris.

The impression is that the situation is neither better nor worse than it has been for several days.

According to one member of the cabinet, the commissioners have not yet taken up the question of the Philippines. The ministers, however, are very reserved.

General Weyler and Senor Romero y Robledo, with several friends, are going to Andalusia. This excites considerable comment.

LOOKS LIKE FRANCE MEANT WAR

Vice Admiral Is Instructed To Put Fleet in Shape for Service.

Paris, October 17.—The Soleil publishes a dispatch from Toulon which says that Vice Admiral Fournier, who is now at Tunis with M. Lockroy, minister of marine, will return immediately to Toulon, where orders have been received speedily to prepare the armored cruisers Admiral Trehouart, Bouvines, Jemmapes and Valmy for active service and also to send to Brest without delay the largest possible number of gunners to man the forts and batteries.

SHE PROMISES PROSPERITY.

Dowager Empress Is Showing Tendencies Toward Reforms.

Peking, October 16—The reactionary policy of the dowager empress seems likely to return to moderation. An edict just issued promises to attend to the welfare of the people and do the best to secure prosperity. The edict provides for the appointment of two boards of trade, one at Shanghai and one at Hankow, having jurisdiction over the whole south empire and the Yang Tse valley, including Shan Si.

Although separate, the two boards have been enjoined to work in harmony. Shang Chi Lung, viceroy of Hankow, is responsible for the reform, which, though of doubtful ability, is important as showing that the dowager empress has embarked upon a policy having tendencies toward reform.

OLD GLORY GOES UP TUESDAY.

Stars and Stripes Will Be Raised at San Juan Tomorrow.

Ponce, Porto Rico, October 16.—The stars and stripes will be formally raised at San Juan on Tuesday.

Brigadier General Fred D. Grant will be given command of the district of San Juan, comprising the jurisdictions of Arecibo, Bayamo and Humacoa with the adjacent islands.

Brigadier General Guy V. Henry will be in command of the other portions of Porto Rico.

AMERICAN TROOPS IN SAN JUAN.

Forty-Seventh New York Reaches the Capital of Porto Rico.

Washington, October 16.—The following dispatch was received at the war department this evening:

San Juan, October 16.—Adjutant General, Washington: The Forty-seventh New York arrived at San Juan at 6 p. m. yesterday. EDDY, Colonel.

The Forty-seventh New York has the honor of being the first American organization to enter the capital of Porto Rico.

General Brooke, chairman of the Porto Rican evacuating commission and in command of the American troops on the island, is making arrangements for the accommodation of the American forces to be stationed at San Juan. The barracks formerly occupied by the Spanish soldiers were found to be totally unfit for occupation by United States troops. General Brooke is having them remodeled and otherwise placing them in a habitable condition.

Spaniards Leaving Porto Rico.

Washington, October 16.—Late last night the following dispatch was received by General Alger from General Brooke in command of the American forces in Porto Rico:

San Juan, October 15.—Secretary of War, Washington: A Spanish transport sails today with 300 men. This is a ship sent from Cuba loaded with men from there. Another sails tomorrow with General Macias and 1,500 men. Another ship is expected on the 17th. Complete possession will be accomplished on the 18th. BROOKE, Chairman.

San Juan, October 16.—Secretary of War, Washington: Captain General Macias sailed for Spain this morning with most of his staff. BROOKE, Chairman.

MRS. LEE SHOWS IMPROVEMENT.

General Has Not Seen His Wife Since His Arrival from Florida.

Richmond, Va., October 16.—It is stated at St. Luke's hospital tonight that Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee is somewhat better.

Mrs. John Sherman Better.

Washington, October 16.—Mrs. John Sherman's condition shows some improvement tonight and her family and friends hope for her early recovery. She is unable to speak yet, but throughout the day she has appeared brighter than at any other time since she was stricken.

SULTAN RECEIVES MR. STRAUSS.

United States Minister to Turkey Is Granted an Audience.

Constantinople, October 16.—The sultan today gave an audience to Oscar S. Straus, the new United States minister, with the customary ceremonies of reception, which were of the most cordial character.

His majesty expressed pleasure at seeing Mr. Straus again, and his hope was that the excellent relations that prevailed between Turkey and the United States during Mr. Straus's previous term at Constantinople would be maintained.

The sultan added that he understood the United States proposed to raise the American legation to the rank of an embassy and to make Mr. Straus an ambassador, a sign which he observed was being carefully considered by the Ottoman government.

After the audience at the palace Mr. Straus visited the ports and then the American colony.

SPAIN WANTS ARBITRATORS IN PLACE OF PEACE COMMISSIONERS

Madrid, October 16.—La Epoca, the conservative organ, renews the suggestion of La Correspondencia, independent and semi-official, regarding arbitration between the United States and Spain. It says:

"The negotiations at present are going on without touching the question of the Philippines, which is most obscure and which lends itself to the gravest dissensions. Owing to the vagueness and lack of clearness of the protocol, the commissioners are meeting with serious difficulties.

"It has been said that if our adversaries are obstinate in their exaggerated demands, Senor Sagasta should address the European governments asking arbitration at least upon the points as to which an agreement could not be reached, but in view of the electoral struggle now in full vigor in the United States, and of the declamations of the jingo press, which affirms without limits the rights of the conqueror, if is safe to assume that a request for arbitration would be without avail and serve no other purpose than loss of time."

FIFTY-ONE BODIES RECOVERED SO FAR

Tugs Are Still Searching Waters for Mohegan's Victims.

OVER EIGHTY YET MISSING

Waves Have Been Throwing Dead and Dying on the Beach.

THE ACCIDENT CANNOT BE EXPLAINED

Passengers Who Escaped Tells Stories of Heroic Work on Part of Members of Crew and Bravery Among Those Thrown Into the Sea.

London, October 16.—The Atlantic Transport Company issued the following statement this evening regarding the fate of the passengers and crew of the steamer Mohegan, which was wrecked last Friday evening off the Lizard, between the Manacles and the Lowlands:

Of the passengers eleven have been saved, ten bodies have been recovered and thirty-three are missing.

Of the crew and cattlemen thirty-nine have been saved, fourteen bodies have been recovered and fifty-one are missing.

Since this statement was issued nine other bodies have been picked up, including two that have been identified as those of passengers.

The reports of the various correspondents differ widely as to the rescues, recoveries and losses though none has been able to obtain the exact number of those saved or of the bodies recovered.

The bodies of the following passengers have been recovered:

T. W. King, Edna King, Master King, James Blackey, Miss H. M. Cowen, Dr. Fallows, B. Franklin Fuller, Mrs. L. M. Luke, George Seymour, Miss L. H. Warrener.

The latest advices from Falmouth this evening say that thirty-eight bodies have been identified, mostly the bodies of sailors, thus indicating that more bodies have been recovered since the company's statement was made. Thirteen are yet unidentified, including those of two elderly ladies. One appears to be a German. She wore a watch and a wedding ring, both engraved "1871." The other wore a silver brooch with the letter "D" in pearls. This is probably the body of Mrs. Charles Duncon.

Up to midnight fifty-one bodies had been recovered. Some were found miles away and it is expected that more will be washed ashore tomorrow.

Many persons undoubtedly were killed by being dashed on rough rocks who would have escaped if cast ashore on an ordinary coast. Some of the bodies are horribly mangled. A good deal of jewelry and money has been found.

As all the navigating officers were lost, it is doubtful whether light will ever be thrown on the causes of the disaster.

All the flags ashore and on the boats in the bay are at half mast.

Nine of the bodies have been brought to Falmouth, the others to the village church at St. Keverene. The rescued passengers are being sheltered at cottages along the shore and the crew at the Sailors' Home at Falmouth.

Tugs Were Hunting for Bodies.

Tugs have been cruising in the vicinity all day, despite the rough weather, in hope of picking up other bodies.

The cause of the disaster remains the profoundest mystery. Nobody attempts to explain how the Mohegan got so far north of her true course—from six to seven miles. There was no fog at the time, while the wind on her port quarter was not sufficient to prevent her answering the helm. It has been suggested that her compass was faulty, but daylight lasted long after Eddystone light was passed.

The sailors say the fact that the Lizard light was not visible should have served to give alarm. The masts of the Mohegan, which are above the water, show that her stern is landward, causing a theory that the navigating officer on discovering that he was in the bay suddenly turned seaward. Two engineers who were saved declare, however, that they never slackened speed.

Remarkable stories of rescues continue. Robert Barrow, a seaman, performed the feat of swimming, unaided, through the roughest water to Coverack point, a distance of two and a half miles. He climbed up the ragged cliff, where a searching party found him early the next morning completely exhausted.

A. C. L. Smith, of Oregon, a passenger, surrendered to a woman in the water wreckage that was supporting him and swam ashore unaided. The woman was saved. Her name is reported as Miss Webb, but no such name appears in the company's list.

Boats Were Hard To Launch.

Messrs. Smith and Bloomingdale say there was the greatest difficulty in launching the boats. The ropes were new and stiff, and the blocks would not work. Four or five times as many sailors as should have been necessary struggled to lower each boat. The lockers were hard to open. The crew, in a chivalrous effort to save the women, made the mistake of undermanning the boats. There were only four sailors in one boat, which capsized as soon as it was launched. Messrs. Smith and Bloomingdale say that Captain Griffiths had appeared ill all day.

The death of T. W. King, who was a newspaper proprietor at Nantucket, Mass., and of his family, including Mrs. King, her mother, Mrs. Weller, and his sons, Rufus, aged eleven, and Anthony, aged seven, has caused deep sorrow at Penzance, where the family had a summer cottage and were very popular.

Joseph O'Rorke, King's valet, who was saved, says he was on deck when the crash came. The lights went out immediately. Rushing to the saloon he heard Mr. King exhorting his family to keep cool.

O'Rorke, with seven others, clung to the rigging until 6 o'clock yesterday morning, when a lifeboat took him off. He identified the bodies of the Kings and Mrs. Weller and will have them embalmed and taken to the United States in accordance with cabled instructions from the relatives of the family at Nantucket.

The description in the London dispatch of Mr. T. W. King as a newspaper proprietor at Nantucket, Mass., is probably erroneous. Inquiry shows that the proprietors of the local papers in Nantucket and its vicinity bear other names. In Boston newspaper circles Mr. King's name is unfamiliar. Probably he was a wealthy summer resident of Nantucket.

Hyslop Condemns Double Railing.

Falmouth, October 16.—John Hyslop, the New York yachtsman who was saved, in the course of an interview this afternoon condemned the double railing around the ship's boats, which, he says, impeded the launching. The masthead light, in his opinion, should have been an oil instead of an electric lamp, as in that event it would not have been extinguished, but would have furnished a beacon to guide the lifeboats.

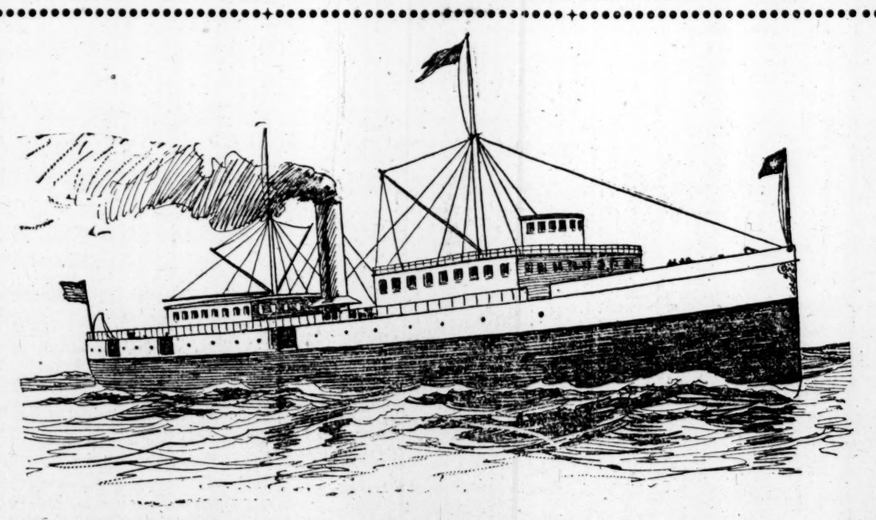

Mr. Williams, the company's manager, says the disaster was utterly inexplicable. The vessel was new and he asserts well found, while the captain and crew were most reliable. He says the crews of the company's vessels have constant boat practice, and he is indignant at the intimations regarding Captain Griffith's inefficiency.

Norwegian Bark Driven on the Rocks.

Newcastle on Tyne, October 16.—The Norwegian sloop Fremad was driven on the rocks at Blythe, about eleven miles north of Newcastle, in a fierce sea today. Her crew was rescued after heroic work by the lifeboats, one of which capsized in the attempt.

Indiana Lady Lost with Mohegan.

Toledo, Ohio, October 16.—H. W. Frazer, a well-known Toledo attorney, has received word that his sister, Miss Mary Fraser, of Marion, Ind., was aboard the ill-fated steamer Mohegan, wrecked off the coast of England on Thursday. After persistent efforts to locate her, he has reason to believe her among the lost.

GUN COTTON BOMB WAS TO HAVE BEEN THROWN AT THE EMPEROR

London, October 17.—The Alexandria correspondent of The Daily Mail, telegraphing regarding the anarchist plot against Emperor William, which was discovered on Friday, says:

"The plot against the kaiser is hourly proven more important, each arrest disclosing new ramifications. The documents found disclose a plot to kill King Humbert already well matured.

"Fifteen persons, all Italians, have been arrested. The original plan was to throw a bomb of guncotton and fulminate of mercury at Emperor William's carriage in a narrow street of Cairo. When the Egyptian trip was abandoned elaborate arrangements were made by the conspirators to send confederates to Jerusalem to carry out the plot during the dedication of the German Church of Our Redeemer."

WANTS OFFICERS TO TALK OUT.

Secretary Alger Says Every One Has the Right To Speak Freely.

Washington, October 16.—Secretary Alger was asked tonight if it was the purpose of the war department to take any official action concerning the statements made by Major Seaman, surgeon of the First volunteer engineers.

"Not at all," replied the secretary, "not at all. I want it to be understood distinctly that any officer or man in the army may speak freely and unreservedly concerning his observations of the war without the slightest fear of possible consequences. While I am secretary of war no man shall be the sufferer for speaking what he believes to be the truth. Above all, the witnesses who appear before the war investigation commission shall be protected to the fullest extent. The commission and the country want the facts and no obstacle shall be placed in the way of getting them. We are all interested in having the clearest light thrown upon the conduct of the war and the standing or promotion of no enlisted man or commissioned officer shall be affected in the slightest way by any testimony or other assistance he may give the commission. We mean to keep absolute faith with the commission and with the witnesses. I cannot be more explicit than that."

SPANIARDS INCLINED TO ARGUE.

American Ambassador Will Entertain Sagasta's Peace Commissioners.

London, October 17.—The Paris correspondent of The Times says:

The Spanish peace commissioners, to show their cordiality, have accepted his graceful invitation to dine with General Horace Porter, the American ambassador, on Tuesday. Unfortunately this does not make agreement or progress more speedy.

In reply to the Spanish statement the American commissioners have declared that the United States refuses to assume sovereignty over Cuba, but would remain in the island to organize normal order and security before handing it over to the authority of the government of the new republic. The Spaniards, however, remark that there cannot be an interregnum of sovereignty and that a state cannot be left derelict, as such a situation would be simple anarchy.

It should be mentioned that in Cuba are an American evacuation commission on the one hand and a Spanish commission on the other, and the many interests still possessed by Spain in Cuba would not be guaranteed if such anarchy existed.

It is therefore a pure fiction, say the Spaniards, if the Americans declare they cannot discuss the debt of Cuba and the internal affairs of the island. In such a case, to be logical, Cuban instead of American commissioners should meet Spain in Paris, as in Cuba.

FLEET MEETS EMPEROR WILLIAM.

Germany's Ruler Will Be Royally Received by the Sultan.

Constantinople, October 16.—A great fleet of tugs will meet Emperor William in the sea of Marmain—the sea lying between the Dardenelles and the Bosporus.

Two worn-out war craft, patched up for the occasion, have proceeded to the Dardanelles to swell the escort of Emperor William, and twenty-four Turkish officers have gone there on board a yacht.

Emperor William, on the Hohenzollern, is expected to reach the Dardanelles this evening and to arrive at Pera, where the German legation is situated, on Tuesday morning.

Jerusalem Is Overcrowded.

Jerusalem, October 16.—The city is already overcrowded with visitors, chiefly Germans, awaiting the arrival of Emperor William.

BOY FOR THE CHINESE THRONE.

Emperor Will Be Finally Disposed of on Dowager's Birthday.

London, October 17.—The Peking correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says:

It is expected in the highest circles that the emperor will be formally deposed on November 23d, the birthday of the empress dowager, and that Prince Jun, a boy of thirteen, will be nominated as his successor.

The Berlin correspondent of The Standard says:

The emperor of China was to have taken refuge at the British embassy in Peking, whence he would have issued a proclamation declaring the acts of the dowager empress void, but the plan was discovered and frustrated.

FIFTEEN PERSONS POISONED.

Toadstools Prepared for Supper and Cause Two Deaths in Arkansas.

Mammoth Springs, Ark., October 16.—Mrs. Joe Williams and her sister, Mrs. Brinkley, while visiting at their mother's home near this place, prepared what they thought to be mushrooms for supper. The dish proved to be toadstools and all of the fifteen persons who ate of it were poisoned, three slightly and the others seriously. A thirteen-year-old daughtr of a neighbor named Greer and Mrs. Brinkley's young son died. The others, though in a serious condition, may recover.

Insurgents Brave Americans.

Manila, October 16.—The insurgents at Lagaspi have prevented the American steamer Hermanos from loading or unloading on the ground that there were Spaniards on board. They also refused to allow an officer of the United States cruiser Raleigh to land without permission of General Aguinaldo.

New Mexico Town Burning.

Alberquerque, N. M., October 17, 2:30 a. m.—A fire on Main street, in this city, has already destroyed six buildings, including the Metropolitan hotel block. Other buildings are threatened.

Gold Democrats Issue Address.

Indianapolis, Ind., October 16.—The national democratic party, through its chairman, George Foster Peabody, issued an address today in which it condemns the Chicago platform and protection.

COMEZ WILL BE MADE PRESIDENT

Cuban Assembly Will Meet in Santa Cruz This Month.

FULL TICKET IS PRESENTED

Old Warrior Will Likely Be the Chief Executive with Maso Next.

GARCIA WILL BE SECRETARY OF WAR

Residents of Island Who Have Refugeed to Hayti Want To Bring Farm Implements Back—Hobson's Work Is Progressing Slowly.

Santiago de Cuba, October 16.—The meeting of the Cuban assembly at Santa Cruz is fixed for October 20th, but owing to lack of transportation facilities the members of the assembly will be unable to arrive at Santa Cruz on time, and the end of the month will probably have come before the election of a president and cabinet takes place.

President—General Maximo Gomez.
Vice President—Senor Bartolome Maso.
Secretary of Foreign Affairs—Dr. Domingo Mendez Capote.
Home Secretary—Senor Benjamin Guerra.
Secretary of Justice—Senor Jose A. Lanuza.
Secretary of War—General Calixto Garcia.
Secretary of Public Instruction—Senor Enrique Varona.

The local papers are much wrought up over the propositions denying the right of the Americans to grant concessions which Cuba libre would repudiate.

General Wood has received a letter from Hayti requesting permission by many returning Cuban families to bring with them agricultural implements free of duty. General Wood replied the President McKinley's proclamation permitted this.

The telephone wires in the neighborhood of Santiago have been broken and torn down by Cubans for use in binding hay racks. General Wood has ordered the arrest of all found to be concerned in the affair.

Many things have occurred which tend to show that the Spanish land system of registration is apparently perfect. Judge Advocate Blount has been agreeably surprised at finding in many instances his work simplified.

Heavy Swells Hinders Hobson.

Naval Constructor Hobson, who has arrived here from the wreck of the Spanish cruiser Cristobal Colon, will leave tomorrow for Guantanamo on business connected with the Infanta Maria Teresa, which he expects to get off to the United States before the end of the month. For the last few days he has been engaged in preparing to raise the Cristobal Colon, a work which is practically impossible from the sea, because of the dangerously heavy swell. The operations will, therefore, be conducted from the shore. Mr. Hobson has built a trolley line out to the ship, a distance of 150 feet, with a suspension bridge, and the compressed air pumps are now in position. On his return from Guantanamo he will push his operations vigorously, as he still feels absolutely certain of raising the hull uninjured.

Lieutenant Colonel A. A. Wiley, lieutenant governor of Santiago, has returned from a trip to Guantanamo. In his report to General Wood regarding the condition of the civil government there, he says the rotten and cumbersome machinery of the clerical staffs is large enough to keep going a city of ten times the size and population of Guantanamo. In the mayor's office he found ten clerks, a messenger and a janitor at salaries ranging from $150 a month down to $40, all clamoring for pay from July 26th, claiming that they had been ordered by the American authorities to stay on duty. The police department there consists of a chief, a lieutenant, a sergeant, a corporal and fourteen men at salaries of from $175 a month down to $45.

Lieutenant Colonel Wiley recommends that the mayor's staff be reduced to one clerk and an office boy and the police department to one marshal and three sergeants.

Cuban Monuments Unveiled.

From 6 o'clock this morning the city was alive with flags, music and processions. The church bells at dawn began to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the declaration of Cuban independence, which was postponed from October 10th on account of the rain. The principal procession left the Plaza de Marts at 8 o'clock for the cemetery, where were unveiled the monuments presented by Cuban refugees, who lived in Jamaica, in honor of Marti and Cespedes. The widow of Cespedes was the guest of honor.

The procession marched through the principal streets, which were decorated with flags and flowers. The ceremonies at the cemetery were very impressive. The address at the grave of Cespedes was delivered by Senor Trujillo, editor of El Porvenir, and that at Marti's grave by Senor Proceso. The procession then went from the cemetery to the slaughter pen famed as the scene of the massacre of the crew of the Virginius and of Cubans without number.

A striking commentary on the unwillingness of the Cubans to work is the fact that Senor Trujillo, one of the orators of the day, whose paper is an extreme pro-Cuban organ, cannot hire any one but a Spaniard to turn his printing press.

General Calixto Garcia desires to contradict the statement made by several news

COMMISSION BEGINS TOUR OF INSPECTION

War Investigating Board Leaves Washington for the South.

TRAVELS IN SPECIAL TRAIN

Twenty-Four Persons Comprise the Party on the Long Trip.

WILL WORK IN THE PRIVATE CARS

First Stop Will Be Made in Jacksonville Tomorrow Morning at 11:30 O'clock.

Washington, October 16.—The war investigating commission left for the south at 4:30 a. m. today, going over the Pennsylvania and Atlantic Coast Line roads. The party comprised twenty-four persons, including the nine commissioners, their recorder and commissary official, other employees and a representative of the Associated Press.

It is the expectation of the party to practically live in its train during the absence from Washington.

It is a special furnished by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and it has been fitted out with the view of rendering the party comfortable and at the same time making it possible for its members to pursue their labors very much as if they were in their quarters in Washington. It consists of a combination baggage and parlor smoker, a Pullman dining car, a sleeper composed exclusively of drawing rooms for the members of the commission, a twelve-section double drawing room sleeper and the private car of General Dodge, chairman of the commission. The party will be personally conducted and the train will be in charge of one of the Pennsylvania company's tourist agents throughout the tour.

The train will reach Jacksonville about 11:30 Monday morning and will remain there until the party is prepared to move to another point. This course will be followed at each stopping point, the one train being used for the entire trip.

DEMONSTRATIONS FOR ARMY.

Dedication of Monument to French Soldiers Largely Attended.

Paris, October 16.—The dedication of a monument to the soldiers of France who fell in the Franco-Prussian war, which took place today at Chaumont, capital of the department of Haute-Marne, General Chanoine, the minister of war, presiding, furnished an opportunity for a demonstration in favor of the army, which many societies seized, marching past the monument and shouting: "Vive l'Armee!"

The socialist party met today and denounced governmental interference with the right to strike. A resolution was adopted declaring that "the whole socialist revolutionary party is united in defense of the republic and will not permit the military conspiracy to lay its hand upon the liberties of the people."

The socialists announce that they have organized a vigilance committee "to frustrate the military conspiracy against the republic."

EDWARDS KILLS CHARLTON.

One Man Shoots Another To Death About a Woman.

St. Louis October 16.—As the result of a fight over a woman John T. Edwards tonight shot and killed Alexander Charlton. Charlton was divorced three years ago. Since then his wife had kept boarders, Edwards being one of them.

Charlton became jealous of Edwards and tonight called at the house to see him and a fight ensued, resulting in Charlton's death.

Edwards is a son of Colonel David Edwards, a prominent patent medicine man in Minneapolis, who died in 1890.

EXPOSITION MAKES MONEY.

$300,000 in Bank to the Trans-Mississippi Comany's Credit.

Omaha, Neb., October 16.—A cash balance in bank exceeding $300,000 now stands to the credit to the Trans-Mississippi exposition. There are fifteen days remaining. All the railroads in this territory have made a half cent a mile rate for the last week of the fair. Tomorrow, the 17th, is Odd Fellows' day. Tuesday, the 18th, is German day, for which extraordinary preparations have been made.

It is felt certain that revenues for the remaining fifteen days will more than meet all liabilities, to say nothing of the salvage. Thould this prove true, stockholders will receive 75 cents for every dollar invested, and possibly 90 cents. More than 300,000 people entered the gates jubilee week. Total attndance to date 2,181,292.

GO INTO THE COUNTRY TO BUY.

American Tobacco Company Inaugurates New Line of Work.

Cincinnati, O., October 16.—It is said that the American Tobacco Company intends to go into the country to buy. This would mean the practical withdrawal of a leading feature of the local market. The company now has two buyers in the Cincinnati market, but prices are not helped any because these buyers and Drummond's agent no longer bid against each other.

A rumor is current that the American Tobacco Company intends to invite the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Company and the farmers and shippers into its fold.

BUYERS WERE DISCOURAGED.

Business on the Stock Exchange Was Small Last Week.

London, October 16.—Business on the stock exchange last week was small, the prevailing influence discouraging buyers. Though war is not looked for between Great Britain and France, the Fashoda affair is a grave matter, while the reported military conspiracy and the strikes in France with the activity of the anarchists, are additional disturbing factors. The only wonder is that the relapse in prices was no greater.

The American market was the only one to display strength and firmness, these characteristics bein gentirely due to New York buying. At the close of the week, however, Americans were weaker.

Illinois Central shares and the Union Pacific's fell ¾ of a point, Union Pacific preferred ½, Central Pacific ordinary ½, Louisville and Nashville ½, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul ⅝, Northern Pacific ⅝, Northern Pacific preferred ½, Erie ordinary ⅜, Erie preferred ¼, New York Central and Hudson River ¼, Wabash preferred ¼, Wabash "B" debentures ¼, Northern and Western preferred ¼, Norfolk and Western common ⅛, Missouri, Kansas and Texas ⅛, Southern ⅛, Denver and Rio Grande preferred ¼, Denver and Rio Grande ordinary ⅛, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe preferred ¼, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe common ⅛, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe adjustment gold bonds rose ½ and Baltimore and Ohio ordinary ½ point.

The advance in the bank rate was a distinct surprise and none were forced to follow the banks' lead. Discounts were from 3⅝ to 3¾ per cent from day to day and 3½ per cent until Monday at 3 o'clock.

BUYING CINCINNATI BREWERIES

English Syndicate Negotiating for Queen City Property.

Cincinnati, October 16.—The prospects are that the big deal whereby an English syndicate is to secure, through purchase, possession of the Cincinnati breweries will be completed some time during the present week.

All of the preliminaries have been arranged, but there is yet some difference between the syndicate and Lion and Herancourt breweries.

It is understood that the difference is in regard to the price, but it will be adjusted satisfactorily.

STOLE MONEY FROM BOOKMAKER

Woman Arrested in New York Will Be Carried Back To Kentucky.

Frank Herdic, a Kentucky bookmaker, claims that the woman stole $1,540 from him, abstracting it from his pocket while he was asleep.

Sheriff Bosworth asked that the woman's examination be adjourned until Tuesday, that he might have time to visit Albany and secure the signature of Governor Black, and the magistrate acquiesced.

Pittsburg, October 16.—Bishop Joseph C. Hartsell, of the Methodist Episcopal church, whose bishopric is Africa, stated tonight that he had been commissioned by the negro republic of Liberia to go to Washington and ask that the republic be taken under the sheltering wing of the United States.

"I am on my way to see Secretary Day," said he, "as the special representative of the Republic of Liberia to secure a protectorate either quasi or actual. What they want America to do is to say to the European powers in Africa: 'We have an interest in Liberia; this country belongs to us.' Whether an actual protectorate can be established or not will depend upon how far the Liberian government is willing to go, assuming that the United States answers favorably."

Meridian Awaits Dr. Carter.

Meridian, Miss., October 16.—Dr. Carter, marine hospital surgeon, will arrive here some time during the night from New Orleans to pass upon the suspicious case of fever announced last night by the Meridian board of health. The premises were at once quarantined as a precautionary measure until Dr. Carter can pass upon the case. The board of health today ordered the public schools closed. The announcement of the suspicious cases has caused no excitement and only a few people have left the city.

There are practically no stocks, either goods or yarns, while engagements are considerable and the position generally has scarcely ever been more healthy than it is now.

STERNBERG TO THE RED CROSS SOCIETY

Surgeon General of the Army Writes to the Relief Committee

DISPENSES WITH ALL HELP

Thanks the Association for What It Did During the War.

SAYS THE GOVERNMENT CAN PROVIDE

Official's Letter Shows That His Department Is Abundantly Able To Care for All Sick Soldiers.

Washington, October 16.—The following letter from the surgeon general of the army was written in reply to one sent to the president by A. E. Orr, vice chairman of the Red Cross relief committee:

I have received the copy of your letter to the president. In answer to your question as to "why the intervention of the Red Cross relief committee should be longer needed and why the government does not see to it that its own sick are provided for?" I would say:

The emergencies of the war made the assistance of the relief association most valuable notwithstanding the fact that it is the intention of the government to provide liberally for the care of the sick soldiers. But, as you know, with ample means and good intentions, supplies cannot always be provided at the proper place and time to meet an emergency. Moreover, at the outset of the war, the arrangements made for providing light diet for the sick which had proved satisfactory in time of peace under the careful management of experienced medical officers, were inadequate under the conditions which prevailed in our camps of instruction and among troops engaged in active operations. For this reason the presence of Red Cross agents, with their abundant supplies of delicacies for the sick, has been of inestimable value.

But provision was made by a general order published August 10th by which surgeons in charge of hospitals—general, division or regimental—are enabled to draw 60 cents per day for each sick enlisted man of the army in lieu of his regular ration. Up to that time the commutation value of a ration was only 30 cents.

The medical department does not supply food for the sick in hospital. This is obtained from the commissary department or by purchase wherever it can be procured. I inclose herewith a list showing the articles which can be purchased from the commissary, which list, as you will see, includes canned soups, tapioca, crackers, jellies, tea, butter, etc. Milk, chickens and eggs, fresh vegetables, etc., are purchased wherever they can be obtained. The medical department furnished a few articles under the head of "hospital stores," including condensed milk, sugar and tea, but no other food supplies are furnished by the medical department or can be properly paid for from the medical and hospital appropriation. Of course if the commissary department fails to provide these supplies and they cannot be purchased in the vicinity of a camp or hospital the difficulty of providing proper food for the sick will be very great and under such circumstances the supplies of relief associations have been most welcome. But the amount now allowed by the government is ample to provide everything necessary in the way of suitable diet for the sick, and when there is any failure to provide this it is a failure in administration by those immediately in charge and not a failure of the government to provide the necessary means.

You will no doubt agree with me that 60 cents a day for the raw material from which to prepare a proper diet for the sick is a most liberal provision. The experience of medical officers shows that it is not only ample, but excessive, and that for sick men, living for the most part upon milk, weak soups and farinaceous food, this amount is much in excess of any reasonable requirement.

Under these circumstances I think that those patriotic and liberal citizens who have contributed so freely of their money and time to aid in the care of our sick soldiers may now leave the matter in the hands of the government without apprehension as to the results.

DEFENDS SULLIVAN'S ISLAND.

Commander Rawlins Says Health of the Troops Is Good at Charleston.

Charleston, S. C., October 16.—A statement having appeared in several papers under date line of Charleston, October 13th, in which it was said that the health of the army post at Sullivan's island was causing the commandant much concern and that four hundred men were sick in quarters, Colonel J. B. Rawles, in command, was shown the article and made the following statement:

"I deem it my duty in the interest of all concerned to most emphatically deny the truthfulness of the assertions therein made. It not an exaggeration simply, but a misrepresentation of the most glaring character as to the health conditions of the troops on Sullivan's island.

The sanitary features of the post nor the sickness throughout the commnd have never been, nor are they now such as to occasion apprehension, for the ailments have not generally been of a nature to occasion "much concern." Out of strength present of 550 officers and men, the sick book this morning shows seventy-five ailing, while but sixteen of these are in the hospital. Nine are virtually well men whose discharge therefrom will occur at an early date. Of the fifty-nine men sick in quarters, not a great number considering the strength of the command, none are by any means seriously ill, but have a variety of disorders, pains, aches and some injuries, with sprinkling of malarial fever of a light type. Of typhoid fever five cases exist today, but anything approaching an epidemic of this or any other disease now or in the near psat at Sullivan's island is more than has been apprehended or even thought possible by those familiar with the salubrious climate.

Lieutenant Colonel, First Artillery, United States Army.

WHIPPED ONLY ONE OF THEM.

How the Mayor of Tuscaloosa Punished the "Hazers" of His Son

Montgomery, Ala., October 16.—(Special.) A special from Tuskaloosa brings the information that the recent horsewhipping of a cadet at the University of Alabama by the mayor of Tuskaloosa was not quite as sensational as was at first reported. The special says:

Hazing the new men is an ordinary occurrence each year which is submitted to good-naturedly by the freshmen when not carried beyond a certain limit. The university authorities take severe measures to prevent the cruelties which are often practiced in other institutions. This year, however, the hazing was unusually harsh, by a comparatively few of the old boys. Allen Jemison, a new student, resisted, and being an athletic young fellow of sixteen, it was found necessary to overcome him by numbers. When opportunity offered, therefore, he was thrown down and set upon by twelve boys older than himself, who beat him with leather straps and boards.

When W. C. Jemison, the father of the boy, learned of the occurrence last night, he watched for the ringleader of the affair, and failing to catch him in town, went out to the barracks at midnight. He went to the cadet's room and informed the young man that he intended giving him a taste of what twelve had given his son, and proceeded to give him a severe punishment. This young man was the only one dealt with.

One of the three boys said to have been "shipped" on account of hazing had never matriculated. He was found in barracks with a leather strap loaded with two leaden slugs, upon his person, and was sent away in double quick time. The strap is still in the possession of the college authorities. Only a few of the students have been guilty of cruelties. It is the policy of the university to suppress any attempt at such hazing and the strictest measures are taken whenever it occurs. The majority of the student boys are as gentlemanly and good-hearted a set of fellows as are ever found in a large institution, and they condemn as severely as do the officers the kind of hazing which has recently occurred.

General Garcia had a long interview with General Wood this morning, requesting transportation to Santa Cruz del Sur. He told General Wood it was important for him to be there "in order to frustrate the plot to overthrow the supremacy of those who had fought for Cuba for three years and put in their places non-combatants and immigrants." General Wood agreed to provide him with transportation by steamer tomorrow.

General Wood has received orders from Washington to secure information as to such places in the province of Santiago as the Spaniards are evacuating and to send troops thither immediately as well as to take over the civil government. He is still awaiting news from Holguin before sending the Second immune regiment there.

General Wood has received requests from two companies for railway concessions—one line betwen Santiago and Manzanillo and the other between Santiago and Havana. These requests will be forwarded to Washington.

TWO HOUSES WERE BURNED

Fire Department Had a Difficult Blaze To Contend with on McDaniel Street Yesterday Morning.

Fire was discovered yesterday morning at 1:30 o'clock in the store of J. E. McCullough, 315 McDaniel street, and a telephone alarm summoned the department. The blaze was well advanced when the firemen arrived and the wind was blowing the flames in the direction of the home of J. M. Burckel, who lived next door. The residence was already on fire and the firemen directed their efforts to saving it.

The store was burned and the residence was badly damaged, although it was not entirely destroyed. The fire originated in the rear of the grocery store, and it is the opinion of those who fought the fire that it was the result of spontaneous combustion, as no evidence of incendiarism was discovered.

The department had an alarm last night at 9:09 o'clock which called the firemen to the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose building. The chemical answered and the small fire was soon out. An awning over the sidewalk had become ignited in some manner and was badly burned, although the fire did not reach the inside of the store.

FEVER HOSPITAL IS WANTED IN HAVANA

American Surgeons Demand Erection of Building for United States Troops.

YELLOW FEVER NOT ISOLATED

Plans of Every Fortification on Island Given to Colonel Clous.

THEY WILL NOW EXTEND RAILROADS

Colonel Waring Has Found the City in a Deplorable Condition—Will Construct Sewer System.

Havana via Key West, Fla., October 16.—Drs. Lane and O'Riely have made a report to the surgeon general insisting upon the immediate establishment of an American fever hospital here. The existing hospitals do not isolate yellow fever patients and the result is that if a person suffering from any other complaint is removed to the hospital he runs the risk of contracting the fever.

Colonel Clous has received a plan of every fortification on the island, each one signed personally by General Blanco. These plans had been requested by our commissioners, but were not delivered until yesterday.

The transportation commission has begun work on the plans for the extension of the railroad to the camp at Guanabacoa, which will be the first to be got ready. They have asked for bids and laborers are being employed to push the work rapidly.

Colonel Waring has found Havana dirtier than he anticipated. He says it will be necessary to tear open the streets and lay drainage pipes and sewers. He sees no reason to fear an epidemic, as there was no spread of disease when the streets were opened recently to lay water pipes. He is greatly satisfied with the excellence of Havana's water supply. Industry and commerce continue at a standstill.

New York planters and merchants who recently returned here anticipating an early resumption of business are going abroad again to wait until affairs are settled in Cuba, as they do not dare embark in business ventures or risk a cent in the present unsatisfactory and indefinite condition of political affairs on the island. In the meantime the country daily grows poorer. The sugar and tobacco crop are unsown.

That the condition of the Cubans is not so desperate or black as is painted, outside the fact that they are short of rations, is confirmed by Colonel Rowan and Lieutenant Parker, who, after crossing the island five times, covering 100 miles and visiting every insurgent camp in the island, report that the men in the camps are efficient, well disciplined and officered by men of a high order of intelligence and education. From these men, who have struggled and suffered for three long years for their ideal of freedom, resistance is to be feared to any solution of the problem not having for its basis independence.

The day has passed very quietly in every quarter. It is reported that the Spanish evacuation commissioners have handed the American commissioners a note giving the names and numbers of Spanish transports now on the way to Cuba. It is understood that there are twenty-seven.

The general health of the various United States commissioners and their respective staffs is excellent.

Colonel Hecker visited General Wade this afternoon and discussed the question of camps for the United States troops.

FOUND TWO MEN IN HER ROOM

Nettie McConnell, a Young Girl, Has an Exciting Experience.

HER VISITORS ARE ARRESTED

Unusual Episode Among Factory People Near Fulton Mills—Case To Be Tried Today.

Nettie McConnell, a thirteen-year-old girl who resides in one of the factory houses near the Fulton cotton spinning mills, awoke late Saturday night to find two white men in her room. The men were arrested and locked up at the police barracks. They are J. W. Thomason and R. W. Hauk, who work at the Fulton mills.

The McConnell girl states that when she awoke she saw two men in her room, one standing near the door and the other sitting on her bed. She stated to the officers, Patrolmen Norman and Coker, that the man on the bed told her if she called out or made any noise he would choke her. She says the men thought her brother-in-law had gone to church, but she knew he was in the next room, and so, in spite of the threat, she screamed and the two men, when they heard somebody coming, jumped up and ran off.

The girl's brother-in-law chased the men, but they got away from him. Shortly afterwards Special Officer Cavanaugh, with Patrolmen Norman and Coker, found Thomason and Hauk, who were pointed out as the men wanted.

Thomason, who was drinking, showed fight, and he was clubbed by the special officer before he would submit to arrest. Hauk went along without any trouble.

Yesterday Thomason and Hauk made statements about their visit to the girl's room. They admitted they went into her room, but said they were there through a mistake.

Thomason Says:

"I was trying to find a house run by Miss McClellan, where Hauk and I expected to get board. The house was No. 5, and we went by mistake into No. 6. I walked into the front door and into the hall. I saw no one and opened the first door on the right. I immediately saw I had made a mistake and that I was in a young lady's bedroom. I withdrew. The young lady surely is mistaken if she says we made any threats. She said nothing and I never uttered a word."

Hauk Says:

"I stood by the door, and I can truthfully say there was not a word passed. Thomason was trying to find us a boarding house and when we saw we were in the wrong place we both went out. Thomason was drinking some, but I was sober. I suppose that was the reason Thomason got lost."

The arresting officers made charges of disorderly conduct, but they state that the girl's relatives will prosecute the cases in the state courts. The recorder will try the city cases this afternoon.

BICYCLE RACER IS ARRESTED

D. A. Kraemer Stopped by the Soldier Guard.

TAKEN TO POLICE BARRACKS

He Proved He Had His Own Goods and Was Released—Talks of His Experience.

Last night D. A. Kraemer, of Kraemer brothers, professional bicycle riders, of Chicago, was placed under temporary arrest for entering the coliseum at the exposition park and carrying off a trunk of goods.

He was brought to the city in a patrol wagon and held in the barracks office until Jack Prince could be communicated with. As the rider showed that he had only taken out his own goods, he was turned loose.

Kraemer said he had rather a queer experience. He had his own and his brother's wheel at the Coliseum and he went there to get George Kraemer's wheel to send it to Birmingham, where he is to enter the races tonight. He found no one at the Colliseum and boldly went to work and packed up the wheel, placed it in a trunk and put the trunk in an express wagon. As the wagon was leaving the park some of the Second Georgia guard called a halt with fixed bayonets, and the arrest followed when the special watchman at the Coliseum was notified.

Kraemer was turned over to Captain Jennings at the police barracks. The racer said he had taken only what belonged to him and there had been no burglary or robbery. The captain talked with Jack Prince, the racing manager at the park, and Prince explained that Kraemer was all right, and upon this statement he was turned loose.

The young man had a few moments pleasant stay with the police, and aside from the slight annoyance, experienced nothing unpleasant from his temporary arrest. He thanked the officers for their kind treatment and went to the express office and sent off his brother's wheel.

THE SCENERY IS ALL IN PLACE

Preparations Made for Presentation of the Battle of Manila.

FIRST DISPLAY IS ON TUESDAY

Production Is Pronounced the Best Owned by Mr. Pain, and Large Crowds Are Expected.

The scenry for the pyrotechnic display of the Pain Fireworks Company, the battle of Manila, is now in place and every detail connected with the performance has been arranged. A large force was at work yesterday at Exposition park and last night the managers of the show examined every portion of the scenery and stage before pronouncing them ready.

Mr. Jack Craig, formerly connected with the pyrotechnic displays at Manhattan Beach, is in charge of the many pyrotechnical features of this performance, and his presence in the city gives assurance that that portion of the programme will be a success. He was at work yesterday with his force and personally supervised the placing of the effects.

Mr. Frank Oakes Rose, who made a name for himself producing the world's fair pageants, is in charge of the stage, and during the three performances to be given at Exposition park will direct the movements on the stage.

The display is pronounced by all who have seen it to be by far the greatest of the productions owned and operated by Mr. Frank Pain. It is his very latest performance and has been greeted by large crowds at all cities where it has been seen. The display is a wonderful reproduction of Admiral Dewey's victory.

The scenery is a correct reproduction of the land surrounding Manila bay, and the city is seen in the distance. The ships move on the water and belch forth flames of fire exactly as does a man of war in action. The Spanish fleet is destroyed and one by one the vessels disappear beneath the waters of Manila bay.

To give additional interest to the display Mr. Pain has added an attack by land, giving the American troops an opportunity of making a vigorous assault upon the Spanish forces.

The performances will be given Tuesday, Thursday and Friday and a large grand stand has been erected for the accommodation of the large crowds that are expected to attend

A Wrong Notion

It is a mistake to suppose that baby must come with great pain and suffering. An expectant mother need only use the wonderful liniment called MOTHER'S FRIEND to escape the dread, danger, pain, distress and nervousness. Druggists sell this liniment for $1 a bottle. MACON MEN FIGHT AT CRUMP'S PARK

Clisby Wise Badly Cut by George N. Porter.

THE LATTER IS BADLY HURT

During the Fight Wise Struck Him on the Head with a Rock.

WISE TOO ATTENTIVE TO PORTER'S WIFE

She Boarded a Car for the Park—Her Husband Followed Her—She Met Wise and Then the Fight.

Constitution Bureau, Brown House, Macon, Ga., October 16.—(Special.) Mr. Clisby Wise, who was so badly cut yesterday by Mr. George N. (Bee) Porter, is resting as comfortably today as the severe character of his wound will permit. It is said that he has been able to talk some today. Both young gentlemen are married and are as well known as any two men in Macon.

The trouble between them was due to the attentions of Mr. Wise to Mrs. Porter, against which Mr. Porter says he had repeatedly warned Mr. Wise in the past and Mr. Wise had promised to cease his attentions. The difficulty yesterday happened near Crump's park, about three miles from Macon, and was witnessed by Mrs. Porter and her sister Miss Price, of Clayton, Ala. The particulars of the difficulty are said to be as follows: Mrs. Porter and her sister left the city on a Vineville street car to go to Crump's park. Between the rear seats of the car, and unknown to Mrs. Porter and her sister, was Mr. Porter. He had received an intimation and he resolved to follow his wife and concealed himself on the car. When near Crump's park the ladies got off the car and were joined by Mr. Wise, who had driven from the city in a buggy. The trio commenced to walk off and were soon overtaken by Mr. Porter, who had left the car. Some salutation passed between Messrs. Porter and Wise and Porter immediately commenced to cut at Wise with a knife and cut him in several places, the most serious cut extending from the back of the head and under the ear and across the left side of the face down to the point of the chin. Mr. Porter evidently intended this stroke for Mr. Wise's throat. It is said that both of Mr. Wise's ears were split open, his nose cut and one slight stab inflicted in the breast. The knife was a small one. It was first thought Mr. Wise had been fatally cut, but the attending physicians say his life is not in danger.

Attempt at Defense.

During the fight Mr. Wise attempted to defend himself with his fists and did knock Mr. Porter down twice with a rock by striking him on the head, and it was at first reported that Mr. Porter had received a fracture of the skull, but this was proved not to be true, though he was severely hurt by the rocks. If the gentlemen had had pistols the encounter would have been fatal.

The entire difficulty was witnessed by Mrs. Porter and Miss Price, and Mrs. Porter received a severe lick on the face in her efforts to try and hold her husband. The screams of the ladies attraced the attention of Mr. Nelson Tift, a young man of Albany, aged sixteen years, who was near by, and when he rushed to the scene he beheid the two men fighting. It is probable that Mr. Porter would have succeeded in killing Mr. Wise had his knife not closed up and the ladies encumbered his movements by holding him.

Covered with Blood.

All covered with blood, Mr. Wise managed to get to the house of Miss Ryder, where he asked for a pistol with which to shoot Porter. He got no weapon, however, but before he could get out of the house he fell unconscious to the floor from loss of blood and remained in an insensible condition for some time. Mr. Porter went to Ryder's store, where he fainted from the results of his injuries. He soon recovered, however, and came to Macon on a street car with his wife and sister-in-law. Physicians were summoned for Mr. Wise and his wounds attended to. Later he was brought to his home in the city.

Macon Lawyers North.

Messrs. Clem P. Stead, Marion Erwin and A. L. Miller, Macon lawyers, are in New York on legal business growing out of the case of Herring versus Corbin Banking Company. Mr. Stead was appointed by Judge Speer, of the United States court, to take testimony in the above mentioned case, and he is in New York doing that now. Mr. Erwin represents the plaintiff and Judge Miller the defendant. They have been there about three weeks. It is not known how long they will remain there.

Sam Jones Coming.

It is said that Rev. Sam Jones will take an active part in the prohibition contest that has now opened in Macon and it is expected that he will deliver a number of addresses in the tent to be erected in the rear of Mulberry Street Methodist church. Several other noted temperance orators will speak during the campaign. No doubt this will be the most exciting election held in Bibb county in many years and it is probable that the largest vote will be cast ever known in the history of the county. Soon registration will actively begin. The registration at the present time is only about 2,600, but the total will probably run up as high as 5,000 before the books close.

Chaplain Sam Small.

Rev. Sam Small, chaplain of the Third United States volunteer engineers, will be stationed at Macon during the coming winter with the 8,000 soldiers who will be encamped here. He has written to a friend in Macon to obtain apartments for Mrs. Small and daughter. It is not known if Chaplain Small will join Rev. Sam Jones in the temperance crusade in Macon.

College Debaters.

The Phi Delta Society of Mercer university have elected spring term debaters at commencement as follows:

Spring Term Debaters Against Ciceronian Society—John H. Bonnell, of Macon; Clyde T. Turner, of Rome; C. C. Childs, of Macon.

Debaters Against Law Class—Paul S. Carmichael, of Augusta; Richard J. Coates, of Macon; Joseph B. Jackson, of Jones county.

From the President.

President E. A. Waxelbaum, of the Macon Carnival Association, has written the following card of thanks:

To the People of Macon—It is not in my power to properly express the thanks that I owe to my associates in the carnival association and the people of Macon for their untiring and unselfish efforts which made Macon's Diamond Jubilee the grandest celebration in the south's history. This card is written to notify you that I shall always remember the many kindnesses shown and the great assistance rendered by the people without exception to bring about the events of the past week. The carnival was no one man's work. It was the result of the combined efforts of the noble men and women of Macon, and to them I desire to convey my heartfelt and sincere thanks, especially to the chairman and members of the ladies' auxiliary committee, to the noble queens and their maids, the king and his courtiers, to Miss Allen and the other teachers of the public schools, to the members of the executive and other committees, to The Macon Telegraph and News, The Atlanta Constitution and Atlanta Journal, to the honorable mayor and council and all other officers of the city, to the county commissioners, and to all others who assisted us. I beg to assure them that I shall consider myself at all times indebted to them for their assistance.

But the most gratifying result of the carnival is the fact that the people of Macon are once more united in the common cause of making this city what nature intended it should be—the metropolis of Georgia. And this result is one that can never be undone; its effects for the good of Macon will be felt for all time to come.

Let the work for the carnival of 1899 begin today. Respectfully,

E. A. WAXELBAUM,
President.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith, of Elberton. The body was accompanied to Elberton by Mrs. Smith, an uncle and Colonel John P. Shannon.

SOUTH GEORGIA TRADE CENTER.

The Thrift and Enterprise of the Growing Town of Moultrie.

Moultrie, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—Moultrie is one of the most favorably located towns of south Georgia. It is not only the trade center of a vast area of as finely timbered land as there is in the Atlantic and gulf coastal plain, but it is endowed by nature with a number of advantages which conspire to make it the place of healthful, happy homes.

Moultrie is about forty miles from the northern Florida line, about 225 miles south of Atlanta and 125 miles south of Macon, at the junction of two railroads—the Georgia and Northern and the Sparks, Moultrie and Gulf, each of which connects with one of the main trunk lines of the south, the former thirty-one miles south of Moultrie and the latter with the Georgia Southern and Florida at Sparks, twenty-four miles east of Moultrie, thus securing facilities for shipping and passengers sufficient for all demands.

A Healthful County.

Colquitt county, of which Moultrie is the center and the county seat, is unsurpassed in healthfulness, one of the essentials of an ideal section. Some of the prime factors which help to secure this very desirable condition are the elevation above the surrounding country, the perfect natural drainage and the magnificent growth of yellow pine timber.

The altitude of the town is an infallible safeguard against malaria, while the majestic pines are constantly swayed by gentle sea breezes that aromatize the embryo city, thus making all kinds of lung and pulmonary troubles next to an impossibility.

In the early days of Georgia history Colquitt county was carpeted with almost an unbroken waste of wiregrass, overgrown with a wilderness of towering pines. The entire county being a perfect natural pasture, it was devoted almost exclusively to stock raising and was even thought by most people to be next to worthless for anything else.

Time brings wisdom; consequently long before the citizens of the county were furnished with railroad facilities for marketing the products of their farms the broad, undulating plains began to be dotted with comfortable homes and the virgin forests began to be replaced. Within the entire area of the county there were few farms even as late as ten years ago, and the principal markets—Albany, Thomasville, Quitman and Valdosta, an average distance of not less than thirty miles from Moultrie, were reached by wagons.

Such vast stores of wealth as this county held in trust could not remain untouched. Citizens and capitalists began to talk about railroads, and surveyors and engineers began to probe the forests. These enterprises were preceded by energetic naval store men and the demand for a means of transportation increased.

In 1892 the peaceful citizens of Moultrie were startled by the shrill whistle of the locomotive and the heavy rumbling of cars, for the Georgia Northern railroad was a reality, and what had been so long a quiet, isolated country village, consisting of three small stores and a dozen families nestled about a courthouse at the cross roads, was at once the sight of what is now, only six years later, a solid, compact little city of 2,000 inhabitants, brilliantly lighted with electric lights, furnished with pure artesian water and waterworks and brought into speaking distance with the entire surrounding country by a local and long distance telephone system.

This growth, though rapid, is not of a spasmodic and temporary kind, which, like a hothouse plant, when exposed to the scorching blaze of summer sun, wilts and dies in less time than it grew up, but it is a healthy, permanent growth, made so by the inexhaustible resources of the country, ably husbanded by a patriotic, intelligent and energetic class of citizens.

Prosperity in the Country.

Nothwithstanding the cry of hard times and the depression of business complained of in some places, every department of industry in Moultrie and Colquitt county have moved steadily forward, as is clearly indicated by the remarkable advancement of public enterprises, besides a large addition to the county courthouse, the erection of a safe and comfortable brick and iron jail, an elegant and thoroughly modern school building and three handsome churches. In addition to the growing of all the farm products common to this clime, the trading industries of the county are naval stores and lumbering.

Exhausting the turpentine resources is a gradual but not a rapid process, and as a rule, it is not until the turpentine has been exhausted from the tree that it is cut for lumber and not until all the timber large enough to be sawed into lumber has been removed from a piece of land that it is cleared and cultivated.

Valuable for Cultivation.

As already stated, it was discovered years ago that this land is as valuable for cultivation as it is for grazing, for turpentine and for lumber. The soil is light and contains a sufficient per cent of sand to make cultivation easy, and it has a solid clay subsoil close enough to hold fertilizer, thus making the ground susceptible of the highest degree of cultivation.

Just as fast as the turpentine is appropriated and the saw timber cut away openings are made for first-class farms, which are constantly increasing in number and in size. The turpentine and lumber, which will not be exhausted in several decades, keep money in circulation all the year, and the beautiful undulating uplands which are being cleared of the heavy timber offer to the people of less favored sections rare opportunities for securing a home at a small cost and engaging in diversified farming and fruit growing, for here are peaches, grapes, figs and plums grown to perfection. Quite a considerable number of excellent citizens from some of the older counties of the state and from North and South Carolina are making commendable use of these opportunities.

Chief Engineer Stone.

Douglas, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—In a recent special Mr. J. T. Stone was referred to as an engineer on the Douglas extension of the Waycross Air-Line railroad. This was an error, as Mr. Stone is a general engineer duly elected by the company, an excellent gentleman and a most expert officer, whose talents and industries will do much for the promotion of that section of the country.

Winnie Davis Memorial.

Elberton, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—The Elberton camp Sons of Confederate Veterans will next week hold a memorial service in honor of Miss Winnie Davis. An excellent programme is being arranged and Elberton's happiest speakers will be called upon. This camp is a flourishing one and one of the largest in the state. Professor W. F. Jones is commander.

Athens City Schools.

Athens, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—The city schools have enrolled nearly 1,500 scholars. This is the largest enrollment in their history. In September the average daily attendance upon the schools was over 1,200.

WERE RELIGIOUS AND BELLIGERENT

Fight Between Prominent Farmers in Tennessee.

ONE KILLED, TWO WOUNDED

Cam Simmons Was Engaged To Be Married to Miss Wisener.

SENT HER A RELIGIOUS PAPER TO READ

Its Doctrines Did Not Suit the Irvines, in Whose Family Young Lady Lived and a Fight Ensued.

Nashville, Tenn., October 16.—(Special.)—A shooting affray occurred at Carter's Creek, in Maury county, this morning, in which one may was killed and two others wounded. The men are prominent farmers and the trouble grew out of religious differences. Cam Simmons was engaged to be married to Miss Willie Wisener, who lives with Mrs. Irvine. Recently he sent her a church paper requesting that she read a certain article. This provoked a quarrel with Mrs. Irvine's sons and yesterday Simmons and Mrs. Irvine quarreled. This morning Warren and Drew Irvine armed themselves with revolvers and went to Simmons's home to settle affairs. Simmons told them he wanted no trouble and turned to go into the house, when one of the Irvine boys shot him in the back. Simmons then began firing and all three men emptied their revolvers. Simmons was struck three times and died i na few hours. Warren Irvine was hit twice and Drew Irvine once, but both will recover.

HOW SMITH KILLED WOOD.

Details of the Tragedy Over a Game of Cards Between Soldiers.

Athens, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—The murder of Private Pat Wood, of the Second Georgia regiment, company G, in this city yesterday afternoon created a great deal of excitement and the indignation of the soldiers now here is very great. The authorities are making every effort to apprehend Private W. E. Smith, the murderer, but have as yet been unable to get him.

Private S. H. Jenkins, who was present at the killing, says that Wood was playing five-up with a man he had never seen before. Smith was backing this man. They fell out over the game and Smith called Wood a d—d liar, whereupon Wood called him the same thing. Smith said: "Take that," and placing his pistol within two inches of Wood's head, pulled the trigger. The bullet plowed through Wood's brain, killing him instantly. Smith and the stranger ran off. Jenkins came to town and notified the police.

When the dead man's body was first seen after the killing it was lying face downward. In the right hand were six cards, among them being the deuce, three spot and six spot of diamonds. The eight of diamonds was turned up as trumps on the deck of cards near by. She ten of diamonds was in the deck. Where were the other eight diamonds? They were not to be found. The cards had evidently been stacked on Wood.

At the undertaker's establishment it was found that in addition to the bullet wound there was a stab just above the left temple, and it is believed that the stranger as well as Smith had a hand in the killing. Wood had $45 on his person yesterday morning. When he was found he didn't have a cent. All the money that was found was 35 cents, the stake for which they were playing.

RAPIDLY GOING TO PIECES.

Populist Party Has but Few Members in Sumter.

Americus, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—The result of the recent state election has effectually obliterated the populist party in Sumter, as in other counties of the state. Only a little more than a hundred populist votes were cast in the county notwithstanding the fact that they had a full ticket out for members of the legislature and county officers. One of the party leaders here declared yesterday that it was useless to fight longer under the banner of Watsonism, and henceforth he would quit the populist party and vote independently in all elections. This coming from one holding a high position in the ranks of the populists is significant and is taken to mean that he and other good men who have strayed off after strange gods will soon come back to the democratic party. With populism dead beyond resurrection and the negro republicans split up into fighting factions, the old democratic ship will henceforth have smooth sailing in Sumter.

INSULTED McMICHAEL'S WIFE.

That Is Why Vines Wilson Now Languishes in Prison.

Monticello, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—On last Thursday morning Vines Wilson come to Minnetta from Macon in a drinking condition. He entered Will McMichael's home, insulted his wife, whereupon McMichael shot him twice, once through the body, the other through the arm. Wilson was carried home and lingered in a suffering condition until last night, when he died. McMichael came in and gave himself up to Sheriff Wilburn. He was released on a small bond. After Wilson died he was rearrested and put in jail. Wilson made a dying declaration contradicting McMichael's statement. No one but McMichael's wife was present at the shooting.

KNOCKED A POLICEMAN.

How a Town Bully Was Permitted To Take Charge of Gadsden.

Gadsden, Ala., October 16.—(Special.)—Little Field, a tough citizen and desperate man, backed up by some half dozen others of the same stripe, took charge of Gasden Saturday night about 11 o'clock, and stood the police force at bay. Little Field walked up tonight to Policeman Garner, remarking, "I understand you are the bully of the police force," and struck him. Garner then knocked Little Field down, and jumped on him to put the nippers on him, when Little Field drew his gun and fired, the ball entering the fleshy part of his hip behind. Chief White and two other officers came up about this time, and Officer Alston was set on by Little Field's companions and was rendered powerless, while the other officers allowed Little to walk away unnoticed, and he is still at large. Garner is very badly hurt.

GENERAL GREENE IN SAVANNAH

Commands First Division During Absence of General Lee.

Savannah, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—Major General F. V. Greene, who led the left wing of the American army in the battle of Manila, arrived here today to look over the situation preparatory to assuming command of the First division of the Seventh army corps, which will be brought to Savannah this week.

General Green takes command of the entire corps in the absence of General Lee, who is at present in Richmond on account of the serious illness of his wife. General Greene spent some time tonight in conference with the city officials. He will go to Jacksonville in the morning to be present at the review of the corps before the army investigation commission, which is on its way to that city.

Major Russell B. Harrison, provost marshal of the corps, arrived tonight also, and spent some time in conference with the chief of police with a view to making arrangements for handling the army police department here. Major Harrison has made an excellent record in Jacksonville, and says he intends to give this city a thorough police system when the corps gets here.

ONE OF THE OLDEST NEGROES.

Dennis Clayton, of Athens, in His Second Century.

Athens, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—In the person of Dennis Clayton, colored, Athens posseses a quaint old character.

Dennis will celebrate his one hundredth birthday Monday next, and yet he is hale and hearty and every day can be seen at the beef market on Jackson street, where he officiates as errand boy. And while he is a little slow, he nevertheless fills his place satisfactorily.

Dennis was sold to slave traders in Baltimore in 1810 when he was but twelve years old and by them was brought south. He was, along with others, put up for sale in this city in 1810 and was bought by Judge Augustin P. Clayton, judge of the superior courts of this circuit and one of the most eminent jurists in the state.

In 1812 Dennis helped to build the Georgia factory, five miles from Athens. This was the first cotton factory built in Georgia and one of the first in the south. It was owned by Judge Clayton and Mr. Thomas Moore at that time. It is now owned by the members of the White family.

As soon as the factory was completed Dennis was put to work in the spinning room along with other darkies. He worked there several years, and as all those hands are now dead except Dennis, it follows that this old negro is today the oldest cotton spinner in the state, if not in the entire south.

In 1831 Dennis helped build the new college building on the campus, and for nearly seventy years the great men of Georgia have received an education within the halls constructed by the old darky.

Old Dennis has lived in two centuries already and bids fair to see the beginning of another. He was born a year before General Washington died and consequently has lived under every president this country has had.

DEATH OF A FEMALE HERMIT.

In Ten Years She Had Not Spent as Much as One Dollar.

Rockmart, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—One of the most eccentric persons in all north Georgia passed away here Tuesday. Her name was Mrs. Mary Burke, and she was over eighty years of age. She was singular in that she persisted in living all alone all the time. She would not permit even her nearest relatives to live with her.

It is said that she has not spent a dollar in ten years. She depended upon her neighbors for food and always got it. She would spend her leisure hours gathering together such pieces of wood as she found for her winter fuel. Unless the weather was extremely cold she never had a fire, but would sit on the sunny side of her home for warmth.

Her neighbors suspected that she had money and plenty of it, knowing that in her young womanhood she was a woman of means. It has turned out that their suspicions were correct, for over $800 in gold, besides some silver and paper money, were found in various places about her home. It was said that she had said she intended to give her money to a negro whom she seemed to fancy, but as she left no will the money will go to her relatives.

Will Ask for Popular Vote.

Rome, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—A bill will be introduced in the next legislature from Floyd county providing for the election of the city judge by popular vote. The idea is the outgrowth of the vote for the election of superior court judges and solicitors by popular vote. It is believed that the bill will make a strong bid for passage. As the time for the assembling of the legislature approaches the race for city court judge becomes livelier. Two candidates are J. F. Hillyer, M. B. Eubanks, Sproull Fouche and A. G. Ewing. There is no forecasting the successful man.

Election in North Rome.

Rome, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—The town of North Rome will hold an election on November 15th for the purpose of ratifying a legislative bill of 1893 establishing a free school system in that place. The scheme will have some opposition, but it is believed it will pass without trouble. The corporation of North Rome will, is generally thought, come into Rome proper before many months. Many of the best citizens have long favored annexation for the sake of lights, water, schools and fire protection, but the idea has been fought by others for the fear of additional taxes.

Americus Cotton Receipts.

Americus, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—Americus has handled 21,000 bales of cotton thus far this season and it is expected that the total receipts will reach 50,000 bales as heretofore. More than 900 bales were brought to the warehouses yesterday by wagon and the proceeds turned into the channels of trade gave a wonderful impetus to business. Despite the low price of cotton, the banks and merchants report collections very good.

WHEN PEOPLE SHIVERED.

Strange Religious Hallucination in South Carolina.

Anderson, S. C., October 16.—(Special.)—External influences on internal belief have produced many remarkable effects, but none more remarkable, perhaps, than were manifested at various associations and churches in this county sixty years ago, a revival of the memory of which has just been brought about by an inquiry by Mr. William Harper, of Pickens county, whether any one now living remembered the circumstances.

The favorite exercises of those under these influences appears to have consisted in violent jerkings of the body, which were accompanied with sounds they would utter similar to the barking of a dog. The jerking would lose the folds of the ladies' hair and the perpetual and rapid swaying of the body forward and backward would cause the hair to pop like whips.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ballentine, a venerable lady of Broadaway township, in this county, states that she remembers well when her aunt, Miss Barbara Harper, had the "jerks" at Shady Grove and was so violently affected that her hair popped like a whip and she could not be held still.

Mr. T. B. Wright, an aged and prominent planter of this county, states that he saw three ladies, a Miss Shearer, Miss Latham and a Mrs. Yeargin, have the "jerks" in the Good Hope settlement, and a Miss Betsy Ellen Wood and a Mr. Cox similarly affected at Cross Roads church now the First Baptist church at Starr, S. C., and that Cox, during one of these exercises went out into the woods and treed the devil up a tree. Cox stood at the base of the tree looking up and barking like a dog baying.

These peculiar demonstrations of religious affection were manifested in various parts of Anderson county, but appear to have died out in a few years.

Persons thus affected were members of different denominations and no efforts were made by them to organize into a distinct sect.

ATLANTA CAMP HAS MEMORIAL SERVICE

Exercises Were Conducted in Trinity Church Last Night.

AUDITORIUM WAS CROWDED

Interesting and Impressive Addresses Were Delivered.

FOURTEEN DID NOT ANSWER THE ROLL CALL

Dr. T. P. Cleveland, the Veteran Chaplain of Atlanta Camp, Presided Over the Meeting.

MEMBERS OF ATLANTA CAMP, NO. 159, United Confederate Veterans, held memorial services last night in Trinity church in honor of the members of the camp who have died within the past year. The services were impressive and beautiful and many of the old veterans were in tears before the benediction was pronounced.

The large auditorium of the church was crowded at 7:30 o'clock, which was the time for the services to begin, and when the members of Atlanta camp marched into the church it was necessary for the ushers to make room for them in order that they might not be kept standing. The veterans came in two abreast. Many were on crutches, while it was necessary to assist others to their places.

The organ voluntary by Mrs. Robert J. Guinn was a familiar air and the veterans kept step with the music as they marched down the aisle. Many wore the gray uniforms of the camp, but the majority wore citizens' clothes. The choir, which was composed of Miss Lillian C. Clarke, soprano; Miss Rose White Steinhagen, contralto; Dr. William Owens, tenor, and Mr. Herbert J. Stiff, basso, sang beautifully.

The programme was as follows:

Organ voluntary.
Entrance of confederate veterans.
Voluntary—Choir.
Introductory Remarks—Commander A. J. West.
Reading Scriptures and Prayer—Rev. W. B. Stradley, D.D.
Song, "Holy Spirit, Faithful Guide"—Choir.
Roll Call—Adjutant J. Colton Lynes.
Song, "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder"—Choir.
Address—Rev. W. F. Quillian.
Song, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul"—Choir.
Address—Rev. D. W. Gwinn, D.D.
Song, "Only Waiting"—Choir.
Closing Remarks—Chaplain T. P. Cleveland, D.D.
Song, "We Shall Meet By and By"—Choir.
Prayer and Benediction—General C. A. Evans.
Organ postlude.

Colonel A. J. West, in making his introductory remarks, said:

"It has been the custom for a number of years to hold memorial services in memory of the members of our camp who have died with'n the year. This is the tenth memorial service in the history of our organization and the ranks are getting thinner. One by one they are falling out, and this year we hold services in memory of fourteen.

"They were men who carried the flag of their country and left their homes for the front in the dark days of our history, when the men of our southland were exposing themselves and dying for a principle; when our patient, loving women were cheering us in the performance of our duty, and when our homes were converted into ashes as gray as our uniforms and nothing remained but smoking embers and a memory.

"We cannot tell who will be here next year to hold these memorial services. Your name and my name may be on the list of the dead, and while we are sorrowing for our dead brothers, next year we may be among the dead, and there may be others sorrowing for us."

Reading of the Roll.

In the absence of Adjutant J. Colton Lynes, who is in Virginia and who telegraphed his regrets to the camp, Colonel J. O. Waddell read the roll call. This was very impressive. Each name was called twice until all fourteen had been read. The choir followed with "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder," and many of the veterans were compelled to use their handkerchiefs freely during the singing.

Rev. W. F. Quillian, in delivering his address, said in part:

"I remember well what caused me to decide to go to the front and do what I could, although I was then but a boy, in the defense of my country. It was a sermon delivered by Rev. R. W. Bingham, now pastor of the Merritts Avenue Methodist church. He was then my presiding elder, and in his sermon asked if we were to sit idle while our brothers were fighting.

"When I went home I told my father and mother of my decision. Neither spoke, but my father's cheeks turned pale as death and my mother shook like a leaf. Later my father came to me saying, 'Go, my boy,' just as thousands of other fathers did, and that is how I came to join the confederate army. Now, brothers, we have only a short time to remain here below. We are now at war, fighting the battles of life, and I want all of you to join the army of Christ.

"Buckle on the armor of the Lord and with the sword of the spirit in your right hand go forth to save souls and bring men with you to the last roll call up yonder."

Dr. D. W. Gwinn said:

"Let us remember that we have only a short time to remain away from our home in heaven, and let us strive at all times to prepare ourselves to enter it. Boys, for you know that is what we called each other during the good old days, don't you remember that when we came back to the places where once our homes had stood we found them burned. We found our herds and our cattle driven off.

"Well, in place of these homes that were destroyed we have mansions waiting for us in heaven. That is a place where there is no strife and no war, and we ought to try to answer the roll when it is called on the judgement day."

Daughter of the Confederacy

Dr. T. P. Cleveland is chaplain of Atlanta camp, having been elected to that position for a number of successive years. He presided over the services last night and made the closing address, but connned his remarks almost entirely to the death of the "Daughter of the Confederacy." He said:

"On the list of the dead you will find the name of Miss Winnie Davis. She was an honorary member of our camp and was the daughter of the confederacy. There can be no other, and if I understand the sentiment of the confederate veterans, we want no other. The place of Winnie Davis in our hearts can no more be taken by another than a father can fill the vacancy in his breast when his child passes away.

The services last night were conducted in memory of Major J. H. Ketner, Company B, Fifth Arkansas, died May 23, 1897; Captain J. H. Nichols, Phillip's legion, died November 17, 1897; J. L. Conley, private Company A, Seventh Georgia cavalry, died March 15, 1898; S. Dunlap, private Company B, Macon volunteers; Captain Thomas W. Latham, Company E, Thirty-fifth Georgia, Thomas's brigade, died April 4, 1898; W. H. Simpkins, private Company H, Cobb's legion, died April 23, 1898; A. T. Simmons, private Seventh Alabama cavalry, died May 8, 1898; S. H. Jones, private Company D, First South Carolina, died May 27, 1898; S. Frank Warren, private Columbus Guards, died May 27, 1898; M. T. Griggs, private Company B, Fourth Georgia, died June 5, 1898; John A. Fitten, private Company A, Georgia Cadets, died July 28, 1898; Julian T. Bailey, private Company A, Sixty-second Alabama, died July 31, 1898; L. R. Allen, private Company A, First Georgia reserves, died August 14, 1898; Captain A. J. Lyle, staff of General Starnes, died September 28, 1898; Miss Winnie Davis.

After Schley Again.

The naval strategists who run things from the big building at Washington are again turning their attention to Admiral Schley. Apparently, somebody is fearful lest that gentleman, whose sin is that he is not of the bureaucracy, will be given some credit for the part he played in the famous naval battle off Santiago, and in order that this may be prevented, work is being done on two lines.

First, a board appointed by the secretary of the navy has been at work determining the position of the different ships in that battle. We have had what purported to be a summary of the report of that board, and while it has been denied that this is the exact report, there is circumstantial evidence tending to show that the summary does not do injustice to the views of the members of the board.

If the report is, however, as represented, there will be ample reason to expect it to be regarded as another evidence of conspiracy against Schley. It is not so much what the report says as what it does not say. Admiral Schley and the officers of the Brooklyn will not object to the exact position of that ship in the big battle being known, and certainly to those familiar with naval warfare the fact that the Brooklyn was two miles from her opponents while some of the others were nearer, will not, of course, detract from the importance of the part she played. Perhaps it ought to be explained for the benefit of landlubbers that a ship may be two miles away from the enemy and yet be very much more in a fight than another which is half a mile closer, both of them being far within the range of all the enemy's guns.

Technically, Schley was in command of that fleet, and it happened that the Brooklyn was also very much in the thick of the fight, she having been selected as a special target by the Spanish fleet. If there is to be a report, the fact of this technical command should not be overlooked. It makes no difference if the fight was fought on Sampson's plans. It probably was, for he had been in command during the days of watching and waiting and would have been a very careless officer had he not prepared plans to meet every emergency.

Nobody has sought to take from Sampson any of the credit for the part he really did play, but there has been, and there is, a natural resentment at what is considered his effort to take to himself all the credit and to ignore entirely the fact that during his absence Admiral Schley was in technical command. It is this effort to monopolize the credit and to ignore altogether the man who had command during his enforced absence, that the people of the country have resented and do resent.

And then, also, it is charged that Schley made a mistake in thinking the fleet was at Cienfuegos when it was at Santiago, and this is being held up against him. While this is not particularly important, it is worth noting as showing the continued effort of some of those on top in the navy department to work against some who do not happen to be favorites of theirs.

It is, in short, all of a piece. That there should be these jealousies on the part of the non-combatants to mar the magnificent work done by the men who did the fighting is unfortunate. It is particularly unfortunate at this time, when congress is to be called upon to right certain wrongs under which the navy has been smarting for many years. It would not be unnatural to expect that congress will ask for a shake-up of the bureaucracy before it consents to make these corrections, and that is unfortunate because the changes should be promptly made. But the American people want fair play, and if, as it looks, there has been an effort to injure Admiral Schley, or anybody else, congress will want to know the facts about it, and will make the navy wait for its beloved personnel bill until these facts are all unearthed.

The Making of a Hero.

If they do not call themselves off pretty soon, the president and Secretary Alger will yet make a popular hero of General Miles. This is apparently the last thing either of these high officials desire to do, but their course toward the commanding general of the army can scarcely result any other way.

The petty efforts to injure Miles by minimizing his importance and value continue. From Omaha come stories of intentional slights put upon him, and it leaks out that the reason why the secretary of war ordered General Shafter to join the presidential party in the west was to offset, if possible, the ovation which that official was afraid Miles would receive. The president helped the conspiracy along by his rather maudlin and effusive references to Shafter, and by doing so showed himself a part and parcel of the conspiracy.

During the past few weeks there have been a number of instances of this sort of discrimination against Miles. They have indeed been so pronounced as to make so strong an administration paper as The New York Herald say:

> Secretary Alger, with the active assistance of Adjutant General Corbin, seems determined to keep alive the feeling that permeates the country against the War department for its blundering and incompetency in the handling and care of the troops.
>
> The special Washington dispatches to The Herald indicate that the secretary, by snubbing the commanding general of the army—by overruling his views when expressed and by ignoring him in matters about which he should be consulted—is punishing him for publishing the statements he gave to the public upon his arrival from Porto Rico.
>
> It would have been much more manly and most satisfactory to the people if an official reply had been made to General Miles's statements. If it were in Secretary Alger's power to refute them he should have done so. By remaining silent under the charges, and then, after the lapse of time, subjecting their author to covert official annoyances and insults, Secretary Alger and his adjutant general are unintentionally doing all they can to remove any lingering doubts that may have remained as to the correctness of the position originally assumed by General Miles.
>
> Our correspondent states that the order of three days ago, reorganizing the army corps, had not been seen by General Miles until after it was issued. That a measure of this sort should be framed and the order issued without the counsel of the men at the army headquarters, and actually without their knowledge, points to such an attitude of the war department toward the head of the army as calls for the serious consideration of the country and will demand the consideration of congress when it meets. In like manner, when re-enforcements were ordered to General Bacon, in the Bear Island region, we are told that the commanding general was ignored.
>
> Still another instance cited occurred a few days ago in connection with the mustering out of the First immune regiment at Galveston. General Miles did not consider the unruly acts of a few men sufficient cause for disbanding the whole regiment. He argued that the offenders should be dismissed and the regiment retained in the service, and he revoked the order to muster it out. Secretary Alger on his return continued the original order. Upon pleas made by Representative Hawley, of Texas, it seemed for a time as if the secretary would reconsider the matter, but upon the insistence of Adjutant General Corbin he yielded to the latter, and General Miles was overruled. In view of these facts it is not surprising that many army men are bitter against Alger and Corbin for their treatment of the commanding general.
> This petty warfare in an important arm of the government service is not merely disgraceful to the persons responsible for it and mortifying to the American people; it is a detriment to the service and in an emergency might prove a source of grave danger. It is vitally necessary that there should be good feeling and hearty co-operation between the department and the commanding general. The existing situation is destructive of esprit re corps and demoralizing in its influence upon the service, and must be terminated without delay.

General Miles was not popular when this war began. He had enemies who had succeeded in poisoning the public mind against him just as they first succeeded in prejudicing the presidential mind. He is not a politic man. He is a soldier and has all the bluntness of a soldier. But he showed his ability in the Porto Rico campaign, although he had little chance there, and his enemies have done the rest. They have, by the very pettiness of their persecution, given him strength with the people. If they don't look out they will yet make him a hero.

Uprightness in Business.

We believe that integrity is just as dominant in the business world today as it ever was in the past; but occasionally the exposure of some crooked transaction, or the detection of some long concealed effort to defraud, rudely shakes the citadel of public confidence, and men dolefully exclaim: "These are degenerate times!"

This stereotyped observation is again upon the lips of the people in both sections, following the recent collapse of the Tioga National bank, of Oswego, N. Y. Senator Thomas C. Platt, of New York, was the president of this now defunct institution, and Mr. F. E. Platt, the senator's brother, was its cashier. In large measure the management of the affairs of the bank devolved upon the shoulders of Mr. Eli W. Stone, the assistant cashier, who enjoyed the reputation of being upright and efficient and who was considered in every respect worthy of that trust. Matters went along smoothly until the past week, when Mr. Stone, after serving the bank for thirty years, during which time his raven locks grew white, fell prey to the insidious hand of disease. Before breathing his last, the sick man, who had enjoyed through so many changes of fortune the unbroken confidence of his fellows, confessed upon his death bed that he had systematically robbed the bank for years, and that the extent of his defalcations would reach as high as $40,000. This declaration, coming from the portals of the tomb, created the most profound sensation, and in the course of the week the bank was closed by order of the comptroller of currency at Washington. Investigation of the assets of the bank is now in progress, and there is good reason to believe from the nature of certain discoveries that the loss will exceed the figures above given, and that the bank will not be able to survive the disaster.

We can readily understand why it is that people are prone to bewail the decadence of honesty in the business world when such untoward revelations come to the surface of events and when men who have towered in the similitude of granite before the eyes of the trustful public, turn out to be pillars of painted wood, rotten to the core. But is it true that integrity is held in lighter esteem in the business world today than it was in the days of our simple fathers? May not the judgment which is thus hastily rendered upon the morals which are supposed to prevail in trade circles be due to the increased publicity which is given by the press to shortages, defalcations, frauds and the like rather than to any marked increase in the number of such crimes? We must remember that fifty years ago the means of disseminating intelligence were extremely meager. There were no telegraph wires in those days and few railways and newspapers; and even the crookedness which did exist in the business world was seldom permitted, by reason of these restrictions, to get beyond the neighborhood in which it happened to spring up. Moreover, the business world was much smaller and much less complex at that time than it is now, and necessarily the aggregate of misdeeds in trade circles was correspondingly smaller. Hence, we conclude that if the business world today appears to be indifferent to the old standards of rectitude which existed in the so-called better days, it is due rather to the multiplicity of trade interests and to the enterprise of newspaperdom rather than to any radical departure from the accepted principles of integrity and honesty.

We prefer to look on the bright side of things and to believe that in spite of frequent manifestations to the contrary, men are beginning more earnestly than ever to practice the philosophy of the golden rule. Of course, there is evil in the world, and evil will continue to fret the world's existence as long as it continues to spin through space; but there is good in the world also, and good will continue to make its habitation in the world until the end of time, growing larger and larger in its beneficent measures from year to year. So let us get out of the shadows;, and taking some wholesome tonic for the sake of our impaired digestion, let us bask more freely in the sunlight!

Hebrew Statesmanship.

In the election of Hon. Joseph Simon, of Oregon, to the senate of the United States impressive attestation is given to the fact that statesmanship as well as business enterprise is native to the fallow soil of the Hebrew race.

Without going beyond the limits of our own country, nor beyond the walls of the senate of the United States, we can give splendid illustration to this statement. In the upper branch of congress three distinguished Jews have held commissions in times past from three sovereign states in the American union, viz, Benjamin Franklin Jonas, of Louisiana; David L. Yulee, of Florida, and Judah P. Benjamin, of Louisiana. Each of these Hebrew senators was the recognized peer of any member of that great forum, and each reflected luster upon the state which he represented and upon the whole sisterhood of states; but we challenge the parliaments of the world to produce the superior in intellect or in patriotism of that prince of the trio—Judah P. Benjamin.

When the late war opened Judah P. Benjamin linked his fortunes with those of the confederate states and in the councils of the ill-starred young government which arose amid the tumult of that great clash of arms this brilliant Hebrew statesman touched the zenith of his career and achieved his most celebrated triumphs. Such was the intensity of his devotion to the cause of the confederate states that when peace settled again upon the country at the sacrifice of the interests which he held most dear, he resolved to bury his American allegiance in the grave of the conquered banner. This determination was calmly reached and faithfully executed. Leaving the United States he went to England, where he began anew the practice of his profession, and soon rose to the front rank of the practitioners of that country. In some respects we doubt if Benjamin Disraeli was the equal of Judah P. Benjamin. In other respects we know that he was not.

These reflections prepare us to expect great things of Hon. Joseph Simon, of Oregon. He will have to bestir himself if he intends to write in his own career in the upper branch of congress any adequate sequel to the records of his gifted Hebrew predecessors; but we understand that he possesses exceptional qualifications for the high office to which he has been exalted, and we feel little hesitation in predicting such honors for him as will amply justify the wisdom of the state of Oregon in electing him to the senate of the United States.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Foreign dispatches state that Queen Victoria is very much annoyed over the publication in Dr. Busch's life of Bismarck of the letters written by the present emperor to the iron chancellor on the subject of her efforts to bring about the marriage between Princess Victoria of Prussia and the late Prince Alexander of Battenberg. Says one of our exchanges: "Of course these letters were never meant for any eyes save those of the late Prince Bismarck, and their publication is as gross a breach of faith as has ever been perpetrated by a biographer. What is particularly resented about them at Balmoral is the contemptuous tone in which the Battenbergs are mentioned, the use of the word 'intrigue' in connection with the action of Queen Victoria and Empress Frederick in the matter and, above all, the cold-blooded proposal made by William to Bismarck to entrap Prince Alexander into signing a document which could afterwards be held over his head as a means of terrorism. Queen Victoria is not of a very forgiving nature, whatever may be the case with her children, and it is doubtful whether she will ever pardon or forget the manner in which both she and her pet scheme are alluded to by her eldest grandson in his letters to the late Prince Bismarck. Much astonishment is expressed that Emperor William, who just at present is particularly anxious to conciliate Great Britain on political grounds, and who is extremely disconcerted, therefore, by the publication of his correspondence, should not have caused the arrest of Dr. Busch. His failure to do so is ascribed to the fact that Busch has in his possession still more damaging letters in the kaiser's handwriting."

The oldest great-grandchild of Queen Victoria, Princess Fedora, of Saxe-Meiningen, the daughter of the Prussian Princess Charlotte, eldest daughter of the late Emperor Frederick, was married to the Prince Henry XXX of Reuss, at Breslau. The Empress Frederick participated at the ceremony, as well as the British ambassador to Germany, Sir Frank Lascelles. But it was meantime commented that neither the emperor nor the empress were present, the imperial court being represented by Princess Henry, the sister of the Russian empress, who eventually paid a visit to her sister at Livadia, the Russian summer residence. Her husband, Prince Henry, in the meantime was entertained by the Russians in the far east, at Vladivostock on the Pacific, whence he has just returned to Klouchow.

JUST FROM GEORGIA.

The First Kiss.

Sweetheart, 'twas but a while ago—it scarce seems yesterday,
Though now my locks are white as snow, and all your curls are gray—
When, walking in the twilight haze, ere stars had smiled above
I whispered soft: "I love you," and you kissed me for that love!

The first kiss, dear, and then your hand—your little hand so sweet,
And whiter than the white, white sand that twinkled at your feet,
Laid tenderly within my own! Have queens such lovely hands?
No wonder that the whippoorwills made sweet the autumn lands!

It seemed to me that my poor heart would beat to death and break,
While all the world—Sweetheart! Sweetheart! seemed singing for your sake!
And every rose that barred the way in glad and dying grace,
Forgot its faded summer day and, leaning, kissed your face!

I envied all the roses then and all the rosy ways
That blossomed for your sake are still my life's bright yesterdays.
But thinking of that first, sweet kiss, and that first clasp of hands,
Life's whippoorwills sing sweeter now through all the autumn lands!

Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving for you, dear—a sweet thanksgiving
For what you were in all the past to me;
For what you are—a joy that sweetens living—
For what you are to be!

Thanksgiving for your eyes—the kind, the splendid
Dear eyes, whose light the whole wide world would miss;
Your voice, in which all melodies are blended—
Thanksgiving for your kiss!

Thanksgiving for your smile, like sunlight streaming
Over my heart, which still for you must beat.
Dear, if to love you be but idle dreaming,
Never was dream so sweet!

THE PASSING THRONG.

Hal Reid, the star and author of "The Knobs o' Tennessee," a member of the American Dramatists Club and formerly a newspaper man, is at the Kimball.

Mr. Reid is as versatile in story telling as he is at play writing.

"While playing in Paris, Tex., two weeks ago," he said yesterday, "it was so blistering hot that I sent to the manager for some ice and had some ice water made. Scenically the piece calls for a dark change, and when the time came for this rapid work I was horrified to see that not one of the stage hands was about. I rushed down under the stage calling:

"'Hurry up here, you fellows; it's the dark change. Come on! Come on!'

"I received no reply, and as the audience were waiting, dashed onward, and found the gang, to a man, gathered in a circle around the ice water.

"'Come on. Come on here! I tell you it's the dark change!' I exclaimed.

"Slowly a voice mixed with laziness and satisfaction gulped out:

"'Damn the dark change; we've got ice water.'

"We played Bryan, Tex.," continued Mr. Reid, "a very small railroad town—what we call a 'wild cat' date, because the opera house at Temple had been burned down, and Bryan was just to fill in.

"Stumbling about in the Egyptian darkness and ankle deep in sand, I stopped a citizen with the question:

"'Pardon me, sir, can you tell me where the hall is?'

"He threw his head back, swelled up with importance and roared:

"'Hall, hell! We got operay!'

"He passed on leaving me humiliated.

"One morning we were taking a train at a small station, at 3 a. m., and found quite a crowd of citizens waiting to receive the corpse of a prominent neighbor.

"'What ailed your friend?' I asked.

"'Well, stranger,' he answered, 'Jim was a landlord and got struck down here. He couldn't get out; he was robust and healthy, but he jest naterally cuddent stand Texas, I reckon.'

"'At another place,' said Mr. Reid, 'my manager, Mr. Browne, was standing at the door when a lean, hungry-looking man approached and asked:

"'Podner, any chance of gittin' a free pass?'

"'Why should I give you a pass?' asked Mr. Browne rather irritably, as this was the twentieth odd request.

"The applicant chewed his long green find for some time, stepped on tip-toe to the head of the stairs and expectorated quietly, then looking Jimmy square in the eye said:

"'Why? Why? Because I'm too durned poor to buy a ticket.'

"He got in.

"We used a town band in one place and gave them big pasteboard tickets for their services and about 8:30 up came a fellow awfully drunk and staggering.

"'I shay (stagger) I shay!'

"'Well, say it,' said Browne.

"'Ish loshi my ticket!'

"'No, that don't go here,' said Jimmy. 'I'm too old to be caught by that. You never had a ticket.'

"'Who di'n' have a ticket?'

"'You didn't.'

"'Yesh I did, podner, (stagger.) I belongsh to the band.'

"'That does settle it,' said Jimmy. 'Those tickets were four inches square and you couldn't have lost one of them.'

"'The hell I couldn't,' was the rejoinder, 'I've lost the bass drum.'"

THE LATE ELECTION AND FUSION IN GEORGIA.

As the returns from the recent election in the state are more closely examined the fact that fusion in Georgia has failed for all time becomes steadily more apparent. Not only were all the fusion candidates snowed under, but the action of many populist leaders in encouraging and countenancing deals with negroes and republicans resulted in the defeat of a score of straightout populist candidates for the legislature, the former supporters of the third party refusing to identify themselves longer with a political organization that openly admitted its fondness for office rather than for principles. The returns go to show that the populist party is not only a thing of the past as a formidable factor in Georgia political affairs, but that the time has passed when any of its leaders can swing votes in a fusion deal. This fact is well evidenced by the defeat of such well-known populists as Ennis, of Baldwin; Edge, of Marion, and many others for re-election to the legislature, although each one of them ran for office without outside indorsement.

In the eleventh congressional district, where Colonel Jim Wilkinson, after having abandoned the democratic party because it indorsed free silver, accepted informally a nomination for congress from the populists, the democratic majority this year will be nearly 9,000 votes. The third party was practically wiped out by the returns for local as well as state offices, and there is a report in circulation that Colonel Wilkinson will not continue longer as a candidate. In fact, he has never yet formally accepted the nomination proffered him, and all the speeches he has made in the congressional campaign thus far have been on general and not on particular issues. Congressman Brantley is certain to win an easy victory, and it is doubtful if any second attempt will be made in Georgia to consolidate the negroes and the office-seeking whites on a North Carolina platform. Populism in this state is dead, but fusion is deader, and the Wilkinson-Hanson-Milliken combination is deader than either.

POPULIST PAPER LEVIED ON

The People's Party Paper Was Levied On Under a Laborer's Lien Last Saturday.

The People's Party Paper, the official organ of the populist party in Georgia, was levied on last Saturday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Andrew J. Shropshire under a laborer's lien sworn out in the city court in favor of Mrs. Mackie Sturgis Holcombe, the secretary and treasurer of the company.

The amount of the lien, it is said, is between $500 and $600, which Mrs. Holcombe alleged is due her for services rendered in the capacity of secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Holcombe is the daughter of Legislator-Elect Sturgis, of McDuffie county, and has been the secretary and treasurer of the company for a number of years. Recently she married Mr. W. H. Holcombe, the advertising manager of the paper.

The paper has been, it is said, in a bad financial condition for some time. It has really never been on a paying basis, it is reported, but until lately has been able to meet all obligations. It is claimed, however, that the company will soon be able to liquidate all debts.

The plant of the paper, which is valued at $1,000, is for sale, and the mailing lists are represented to be worth $2,500. With these amounts the owners of the paper hope to meet all obligations. During the latter part of August the paper was turned over to the populist state executive committee and was edited by Mr. W. F. Carter, but he announced last night that all bills contracted by the paper during the campaign had been paid.

The paper was started in 1890 and for a time the prospect was bright, but the failure of the daily in 1894 left several thousand dollars, it is said, for the weekly to pay, and the sheet never rallied from the effects of this. Hon. Thomas Watson is still president of the company and was in the city last Saturday directing its affairs.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Question of Taxation.

Editor Constitution—During the state campaign, which closed on the 5th instant so auspiciously and satisfactorily, a great deal was spoken and written in relation to the question of taxation, especially in the matter of a reduction of the prevailing heavy tax rate.

The increase in the rate was responsive to the demand of the people through their representatives for a larger appropriation for the common schools and an increase in the amount of pensions.

The pensions will be reduced through one agent only—that of the relentless reaper. There will be no reduction in the common school appropriation, but there cannot be, there must not be any increase in that appropriation. The state has made provision for a six months term in every county; that is the end of it. The state has done all that can be reasonably expected of her. Now we must turn to the true policy as to public schools—that of local taxation. If any county be not content with the school term of six months provided by the state, let that county extend the term two or three or four months by a local tax.

There is but one way that I now see by which to reduce taxation—that is by greatly augmenting the list of taxables. We need to discover and put under contribution to the state hideage property. This is easy of accomplishment. A board of equalization of taxation in each county with a state board of adjusters will bring to light hundreds of thousands of property which is now, and has been since the repeal of the act of '90-'91, in the enjoyment of the state's protection without contributing a dollar to meet the current expenses of the government.

An equalizing board in each county would work a hardship to none, but guarantee fairness to all.

I must not be understood as declaring that there is absolutely one avenue only of escape from the burden of taxation under which our people are groaning. This question of supreme importance will go to the committee on finance for consideration and disposal. In that committee I am confident there will be those who will bend every energy to the cutting down of unnecessary expenses. This can be done and yet give due regard to the fact that true economy consists in the vigorous use of money.

I cling to the belief that Georgia can deal liberally by all her institutions if a way be devised to make every dollar of property within her borders pay its share of the expense of government. Respectfully.

MARTIN V. CALVIN.

A TREE WAS FOWLER'S PULPIT.

Called Down by a Policeman—Large Crowd Heard the Sermon from the Sylvan Pulpit.

From 8 o'clock yesterday morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon Rev. John Fowler sat up in a tree on Edgewood avenue, near the Equitable building, and addressed a large congregation.

The passers-by were surprised to hear a man talking from a tree, and when they stopped to listen they ascertained that he was delivering a sermon.

All day long he talked from his leafy pulpit, and people came and went, but at no time did he fail to have a large congregation.

Yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock Patrolman Kitchens heard of the preaching and decided to stop it. When the officer approached Fowler he was delivering one of his queer stories with which he insists he must make the truths of religion plain.

"Say, you have got to come down from up there," the officer cried out to the preacher up the tree.

"Which do you want," was the reply, "me or my Bible?"

"I don't want either," said the officer, "but you must come down."

Fowler slowly climbed down from his lofty perch, and he appeared to be stiff from his cramped position in the tree.

The strange preacher walked off and his congregation dispersed.

WANTED TOO MANY REFORMS.

Chinese Emperor's Plans Were Not Approved by His Subjects.

Tacoma, Wash., October 16.—According to advices brought by the steamship Tacoma from China and Japan the oriental press is still in an excited state over the triumph of the dowager empress over the emperor of China. The press is unable to solve the riddle of the transfer of power.

The emperor's proposed reforms were widespread and not at all satisfactory to the masses. His last and most radical change was contained in an edict which proposed that an annual budget should be issued which should set forth the annual expenses so the people could suggest reforms and means of economizing. The emperor advised the gentry to embark in the newspaper business for the purpose of educating the people. His edict confiscating temples and other places of worship for educational purposes was opposed from all quarters.

An uprising has occurred in Hainan, China, and the American consul has been besought to protect the American missionaries. The uprising was fomented by a band of pirates known as the Tried Society. Soldiers have been sent to the scene.

Officers Leave Camp Meade for South.

Camp Meade, Middletown, Pa., October 16.—General Graham has ordered General Young to proceed to Augusta, General Oates to Summerville, S. C.; General Davis to Greenville, S. C.; General Randall to Athens, Ga., and Colonel Kirby, of the Fourth Missouri, to Spartanburg to establish camps for the commands designated by the war department in recent orders. Chief Quartermaster Howard has been ordered to Augusta to establish corps headquarters.

Two hospital cars filled with sick soldiers were sent away this afternoon. The invalids were taken to Philadelphia hospitals, which are now caring for over 700 sick of the Second corps.

MEN WHO ARE IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

The official ballot for the Florida state election to be held in November has just been prepared and printed in Tallahassee, and at its head stands the name of James B. Whitfield, the present state treasurer and the democratic nominee to succeed himself. He is the youngest man whose name appears on the state ticket, being just thirty-eight years of age. No man in the state enjoys a more enviable reputation for probity and for popularity than does Mr. Whitfield, and he is regarded by the older democratic leaders as being the "coming man" in Florida politics. He has been in public life now for about a dozen years, and as was said in the Orlando convention, which renominated him in August, he has made not a single mistake. Still more remarkable, he has made no enemies.

* * * *

The man cannot—will not—be angered, and he has such superb control of himself that he will not anger others. A judge of the supreme court said not long ago that if the dynamite ship Vesuvius should explode right near Jim Whitfield's office he would not blink an eye-lash. This coolness and good judgment, together with absolute and recognized honesty, account for the striking success which Mr. Whitfield has achieved in public life in Florida. Jim, as he is familiarly known by his intimate friends throughout the state, received his education in Tallahassee and at the University of Virginia, where he graduated from the law department in 1886. He was a favorite pupil of old Professor John B. Minor, of that institution, who kept up a close correspondence with him until the professor's death a few years ago. In 1886 he was admitted to the bar and went to Jacksonville to practice his profession, but remained only a few months. Returning to Tallahassee, at the solicitation of his friends, he ran for the office of county judge. He was elected and assumed the duties of that office in January, 1889. He had held the office of county judge barely two months when he was tendered the office of clerk of the supreme court of Florida, which was not only unsought, but unthought of. He was loath to give up the office to which he had been elected by the people for even so big an office as that of clerk of the supreme court—the best paying of the state offices—stating as a reason that he did not think it would be treating fair and right the people who had just reposed in him their confidence and suffrages by giving him an elective office.

* * * *

Mr. Whitfield was finally prevailed upon to accept, and Judge Richard C. Long was appointed county judge in his place. He filled the office of clerk of the supreme court for eight years, leaving a record as one of the most efficient clerks in the history of the court, when he voluntarily resigned to re-enter the practice of his profession, his health having been somewhat impaired by the close confinement incident to the duties of that office.

He had barely resumed the practice of law when, on June 7, 1897, he was tendered by Governor Bloxham the office of state treasurer, made vacant by the resignation of C. B. Collins, which was, as every office he has held, unsolicited. He qualified and was sworn in as ad interim treasurer of the state, receiving his commission on June 9, 1897.

* * * *

James B. Whitfield is a member of the Younger Democracy of Florida; he is a stanch Chicago platform democrat, reposing an unswerving and implicit faith and confidence in the wisdom of a democracy of a legally constituted party majority as the nation's bulwark in times of peace, and its only sheet anchor in a time of peril. That he will be triumphantly re-elected next month to fill out the remaining two years of the term yet to run is a good deal of a foregone conclusion, admitted even by his republican opponent, who is Hon. George E. Gay, mayor of Palatka.

WEDNESDAY IS LAFAYETTE DAY

Memory of Great General Will Be Honored by School Children.

EXERCISES IN CITY SCHOOLS

Appropriate and Patriotic Programme Will Be Arranged by Principal of Each School.

COLLECTION FOR MONUMENT FUND

Considerable Interest Is Manifested in the Movement and Monument Seems Assured of Success. To Be Unveiled July 4th, 1900.

Wednesday will be Lafayette day and it will be appropriately and patriotically celebrated by the people of the United States. The children and students who are at present attending the schools and colleges in this country will take the leading part in the celebration.

In Georgia, and in every state in the union, the day will be observed, and the memory of the great and noble general whose assistance and energy aided the American colonies in obtaining their independence and whose friendship and interest resulted in such benefit to this country at a time when it was sorely in need of the counsel of a master mind, will be honored.

The programmes to be observed in the different schools of Atlanta will be arranged by the principals of the various schools and will be of an interesting nature. The board of education has adopted resolutions requesting the teachers to observe the day and to notify the children that they will be given an opportunity to contribute to the monument fund.

Governor Atkinson has issued a proclamation naming October 19th as Lafayette Day and calling on the people of Georgia to recognize it as such and requesting the school teachers and assistants to celebrate it in the schools of the state by proper exercises.

Similar proclamations have already been issued or will be issued by the governors of all the states and territories, and on Wednesday the day will be observed by well arranged programmes in every school in the United States.

Governor Atkinson's proclamation is as follows:

"Whereas, It is proposed to erect a monument, to be unveiled on United States day at the coming Paris exposition, July 4, 1900, to mark the obscure and neglected resting place of General Lafayette in the capital of the French republic, and

"Whereas, This monument is to be erected with funds contributed by the people of this country, thereby enabling them by this tribute to discharge a debt of gratitude to one, who, leaving the easy life of a nobleman in his native land, came to the help of our country during the darkest days of her struggle for liberty and rendered distinguished service to her cause, encouraging the disheartened patriots of the revolution to renewed efforts, and

"Whereas, The Lafayette memorial commission which has active charge of this fund has designated October 19th next, the anniversary of the surrender of Yorktown to the combined armies of America and France, as a day to be celebrated by the children of the United States and friends of education as 'Lafayette Day.'

"Therefore I, William Y. Atkinson, governor of Georgia, in conformity to the plan of the Lafayette memorial commission, hereby designate October 19, 1898, as Lafayette Day and suggest that the school teachers and officials of the state observe the day in the schools with appropriate exercises, and that an opportunity be given the pupils, patrons and citizens of the state generally to contribute to this memorial fund. The money collected in Georgia for this fund will be forwarded to State School Commissioner Glenn, who will send the funds to Secretary Dawes, of the commission.

"Given under my hand and seal this 10th day of October, the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and ninety-eight, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-third.

"W. Y. ATKINSON, Governor."

Fraser Street School.

The programme to be rendered at Fraser street school on Lafayette Day has already been announced and is an interesting one. The programmes to be observed at the other schools will be on this order.

Marseillaise hymn.
Composition—"Lafayette in America."
Recitation—"An Incident of the Revolution."
Composition—"Marquis Lafayette."
Recitation—"Immortal Lafayette."
Recitation (in original dress worn at the reception given General Lafayette in Charleston, 1824)—Miss Louise Martin.
Music—"Lafayette."

The Lafayette memorial commission, which is composed of America's foremost citizens, has requested that every school in the United States observe Lafayette day with exercises of a nature that will bring to mind the deeds of General Lafayette and his important connection with the early history of this country. It has been asked that a certain hour of that day be set apart for these exercises and that at their conclusion the children be dismissed for the day.

To Raise a Fund.

At this time the pupils and their relatives and friends will be given an opportunity to contribute to the fund, out of which the Lafayette monument, which is to be presented to the people of France, will be erected. This monument will mark the now neglected and almost forgotten grave of General Lafayette and will be presented to France on behalf of the school children of this country in recognition of his friendliness and aid to this country during the revolution.

The monument, which it is estimated will cost a quarter of a million of dollars, will be a magnificent structure and will forever mark the resting place of the great general and noble gentleman and will be a tribute to his memory by a people whose welfare he had at heart and for whose liberty he fought and struggled.

Such great faith did Lafayette have in the American people and so strongly did he believe in the justice of their struggle that he gave up home, country and high social position to come and aid in the struggle. His vast wealth was used in furnishing arms and ammunition, and his master brain furnished advice and planned campaigns for the country which was fighting for liberty.

He Aided Americans.

It was through his efforts that large bodies of troops were obtained from France, and the value of his assistance has always been recognized and applauded by the American nation. During his life he was honored and loved by the American people. At his death he was mourned, and now the school children of America who know of his deeds only by what they read in the most interesting portion of the history of their country will contribute their pennies and dimes and raise over the neglected grave of this gallant hero a shaft that will forever mark his resting place, and on which will be written, deep and clear, words which will tell to the world the love and appreciation which the people of the United States feel for this hero.

In few matters of this kind have the school schildren of America and their friends taken so much interest as in the celebration of Lafayette day, and the indications are that it will be even a greater success than is anticipated by the memorial commission.

The school children are anxious to contribute their dimes to the monument fund, and in this way do something to aid in honoring the hero whose deeds, as recorded in their history, have been so much admired.

In Atlanta the interest is greater than in most places, as Mayor Collier is a member of the memorial commission, and the schools of the city will be crowded with visitors Wednesday morning. These visitors will also contribute to the fund and will watch the exercises which are held in honor of the gallant French general.

HOME MISSION SOCIETY TO MEET

Convention for North Georgia Conference Begins Tomorrow.

150 DELEGATES WILL BE HERE

Convention Will Meet In Trinity Church and Proceedings Will Be Interesting.

MEETING WILL OPEN WITH RECEPTION

Large Reception Committee Will Meet the Ladies at Depot—A Number of Prominent Ministers Will Address the Convention.

★ Home Mission Society of North Georgia conference will hold its regular annual convention here this week.

THE ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE Woman's Home Mission Society of the north Georgia conference will be held at Trinity church in Atlanta from Tuesday, October 18th, to and including Sunday, October 23d.

The first session of the convention will not be held until Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, but Tuesday is considered the first day of the gathering, since it is then that the delegates will arrive. The first feature will be in the nature of a reception to the delegates at the residence of Mrs. George Muse. The delegates will arrive in time for the reception, which will be held from 8 until 11 o'clock.

The Woman's Home Mission Society of the north Georgia conference is one of the most important organizations of the kind in Georgia, and the convention will be an event of no little interest and importance to the members throughout the state.

More han 150 delegates and visitors from out of town will attend the convention and the business sessions of the organization will deal with the problems which are presented to the society and will tend to perfect the work and increase its scope.

The convention will be attended by some of the best known ladies in the state and papers from prominent women who are interested in the work of the society will be among the features of the convention. The work of the year will be gone over and the work for the next year outlined. The convention will be one of the most important ever held by the society.

The ladies of the society in Atlanta have been hard at work for several weeks making arrangements for the convention and the greater portion of the details have been completed. Committees have been appointed to take charge of the various features of the convention and they will be busy from now until the time the delegates arrive.

The complete programme of the convention has not yet been announced, but will probably be announced tomorrow. It is one of the most interesting which has ever been prepared for one of the conventions of the society and will be thoroughly enjoyed.

At the opening session of the gathering Wednesday morning Dr. Bigham, presiding elder of the north Atlanta district, and Dr. Lovejoy, presiding elder of the south Atlanta district, will make short addresses in behalf of the ladies of Atlanta. Mrs. Turner, of Walker street church, will make an address of welcome for the ladies. Mrs. Sam P. Jones will make the response.

In Session Three Days.

The convention will be in session Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and a lunch will be served in the basement of Trinity church every day for the delegates, their hostesses and out-of-town visitors. On Wednesday this lunch will be served by Trinity church, on Thursday by the First church and on Friday and Saturday by the other Methodist churches combined.

One of the most important features of the programme will be the sermon by Bishop Candler Sunday morning. This will occur at Trinity church and a large crowd will be present.

During the convention all the Methodist ministers will make short addresses. They will attend the convention and will take an active interest in its proceedings.

Mrs. L. V. Kennerley is secretary of the society in Atlanta and has charge of the matter of recording the delegates. She will be assisted by Miss Fannie Clark.

The work of the Woman's Home Mission Society is of a very elaborate nature and its importance can scarcely be appreciated or realized by those who are not entirely familiar with it. The work of the society is divided into several departments. The connectional department has as its work the erection of parsonages, where the pastor is not receiving a sufficient sum to pay his expenses and where the congregation is not able to buy a parsonage. It also has funds from which money is loaned to churches for building purposes. Under this department comes the work of establishing schools in the mountain districts.

The home mission branch visits the poor at home and establishes sewing schools, thereby teaching poor girls how to sew and make a living for themselves. The parsonage department cares for the parsonages at home and keeps them in proper shape.

Interesting papers will be read before the convention on the different departments of the society, ad these papers will be of an instructive nature, as they will relate the experiences of older members and will give the delegates the benefit of the ideas of those who have been engaged in the work for a number of years.

The Local Committees.

The largest of the local committees, which will have as its work the entertainment of the delegates and visitors, is the reception committee. This body is divided into four parts and the members will be at the depot to meet delegates and visitors at different hours of the day.

The committee which will be at the depot from 7 o'clock until 10 o'clock in the morning is as follows: Mrs. R. P. Milam chairman; Mrs. W. E. Foster, Mrs. Eugene Frazier, Mrs. J. L. Richmond, Mrs. W. Atkinson, Mrs. L. V. Kennerley, Mrs. Edgar Orr, Mrs. C. L. Strong, Mrs. T. C. Mayson, Mrs. W. B. Stradley, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Waggoner, Miss Nita Barsden, Miss Lillia Browder.

The presidents of the various auxiliaries of the society will act as the main reception committee at the reception to be given at the residence of Mrs. George Muse Tuesday evening and the members of the reception committee will aid in the reception of the guests.

The chairmen of the other committees are: Refreshments, Mrs. O. H. Jones; music, Mrs. W. O. Jones; decorations, Mrs. L. P. Thomas.

Mathews, Atlanta.

BLIND TIGERS ARE CAGED BY POLICE

Sunday Proves a Day for Raiding Them in Their Lairs.

SEVERAL ARRESTS ARE MADE

Recent Decision of the Supreme Court Cause of the Raids.

WHISKY SELLERS WERE OFF THEIR GUARD

Liquor Was Being Sold Yesterday in Several Places—Some Unique Cases Were Made.

From its lair the blind tiger was chased yesterday by the city detectives. Owing to a decision of the supreme court last spring, the Atlanta tiger of the sightless eyes believed it would roam at will, and for several months it has been making itself at home in the city. Last week the supreme court rendered another decision more pertinent to the cause at issue and this decision gave the city the right to look after its own blind tigers and to cage them if it was deemed necessary. Nothing was said about this decision, but the detectives got ready for a hunt yesterday and the chase was quite successful.

The first haul made was in a negro restaurant at No. 186 Decatur street, directly opposite the police barracks. Here Otis Pollard and Perry Beeson had a tiger and the cage was an old stove, erected presumably to heat the room, but ostensibly to hold a lot of corn and rye whisky, which was being sold to the customers who had more thirst than appetite.

Fred Bressler, a white man, and Alonzo Chapman, Mary Austin and Howard Austin, negroes, all sat in a little barber shop on Thurman, near Marietta street. There was nothing to be seen but razor strops and mirrors, but a hunt revealed as things invisible a keg of cold beer with glasses ready to serve it out. In fact, it had been served and a number of people were calling at the barber shop amazingly often to talk to those who sat there. All the parties were arrested and the keg of beer was captured as contraband of war.

Frank Johnson, a negro, had a full-fledged blind tiger at No. 50 Decatur street, where he was dispensing corn whisky at a handsome profit.

Susan Sims, a negro woman, was caught selling whisky in a restaurant on Decatur street. She wept and walled when they locked her up at the barracks, saying she was sick and only had a little whisky on hand for her personal use.

Lobe Carter, a nineteen-year-old negro, had a walking barroom. He owned no place where he could sell whisky, so he just went around and sold it on the run. He dealt out several drinks of corn whisky to soldiers, when he was caught and locked up.

H. Hastings, a white man, was arrested for retailing whisky at a small store.

Dan Webster, a negro youth, was caught selling corn whisky in the rear of a shoe shop.

All of the cases will be tried in the police court this afternoon.

Captain Slaughter says it will take but one more Sunday to catch all the blind tigers in the city.

It was on account of the first decision of the supreme court that so many of the tigers cropped out in the city. The decision left the impression that the city could not enforce any ordinance which covered the same offense as the state law, and under that decision the recorder held that he could not fine, but would have to bind over. This threw the hunting of blind tigers out of the jurisdiction of the Atlanta police and then the blind tigers sprang up and have been flourishing ever since.

READY TO BE A FIREBUG.

Frank Richardson Had the Kerosene and Matches Ready and Was Under the House.

With matches and kerosene, Frank Richardson, a negro, was ready Saturday night to burn down a dwelling at No. 217 Glenn street. He was arrested by Bicycle Officers Beavers and Chandler on a charge of arson.

Richardson had a spite against a negro woman who resides at No. 217 Glenn street, and he has been doing all sorts of tricks to annoy her. Saturday night she heard some one under her house and she slipped out and discovered her old enemy running away. She afterwards found where he had saturated a part of the house with kerosene, and near the place was a handful of matches.

Richardson denies the whole story and says he could prove an alibi if he only had the witnesses.

WOODRUFF AND AMOROUS TALK

Interviews with the Street Railway Presidents on Franchises.

CORRECTION OF A PUBLICATION

Constitution Printed Two Interviews Yesterday Morning.

BUT THEY APPEARED IN THE PAPER MIXED

Mr. Amorous Was Made To Talk for the Consolidated and Mr. Woodruff's Interview Curtailed.

★ Interviews on the first ward franchise are reprinted because of a mistake in previous publication. ★

IN THE CONSTITUTION YESTERDAY there were published what purported to be interviews with President Woodruff, of the Consolidated, and President Amorous, of the Atlanta Railway Company, bearing on the question of franchises now pending before the electric railway committee of council.

As a matter of fact the two interviews (in that mysterious fashion that finds an opening now and then in newspaper offices and which are as inexcusable as they are inexplicable) had been thoroughly mixed in the type. The result was that President Woodruff's interview was curtailed and President Amorous was credited with words that were not particularly beneficial to his company. The interviews are therefore presented again.

Interview with Woodruff.

President Woodruff had the following to say Saturday:

"I notice in yesterday's Constitution an interview with Mr. Jack Spalding, the representative of the Atlanta Railway Company. This interview is preceded by a local article, with glaring headlines, all of which does an injustice to our company.

"The article in The Constitution is dealing mainly with the question of street car franchises through a part of the first ward and western section of the city. The application of our company for its line to this section was in the hands of the committee about thirty days before any application by the other company was made.

"What agency this application by our company had in causing the application of the other company to be made I do not know. But, for ours, is it not possible that no other might have been made? While our company was applying for and was ready to go into this territory and to build its lines promptly, it seems the other company was waiting and looking on, and finally decided that they would like also to have the line which our company had applied for, and a month later made an application to go over exactly the same route

Charge Not Well Founded.

"While Mr. S. M. Inman, a director and large stockholder in the Consolidated Street Railway Company, and also other directors and stockholders of our company had been active and earnest in encouraging the building of the Mitchell street viaduct, I had never supposed that the city would give an exclusive right over it to any street railway company and the representatives of the company made this statement before the committee at the recent meeting; therefore the local article as well as the interview of Mr. Spalding, which in effect charged this company with desiring to 'bottle up' this territory and exclude the other from access to the viaduct is not sustained by the facts.

"In so far as the charge is made against our company of favoring monopoly, the fact is this company traverses more streets and makes accessible more territory in the city of Atlanta and enhances the value of more property than all other street car companies in the city, it having been about the third system electrically equipped in the United States, and now operates cross-town service by thirty-two different routes for one fare, serving for one fare at least 98 per cent of the traveling public.

Further Extensions.

"Having extended and now operating many lines, it is an evidence of our good faith that we desire still to make further extensions, which we will apply for at the next meeting of council.

"This company does not oppose condemnation of its line on Mitchell street or elsewhere, except in cases provided for in the grant where such condemnation is necessary in order for another company to reach the center of the city. This is not the case with the company applying for condemnation now, for the same territory can be reached by Hunter and Thompson streets over the viaduct, this route being entirely practicable and no greater distance from the center of the city than the proposed route via Mitchell street.

"The patrons of our Pryor, Loyd and Washington street lines are well aware of the fact that the Alabama street tracks are already inadequate for the operation of request service over these lines, hence it has been the purpose of this company for some time to connect the Loyd street tracks along Mitchell street with the Pryor street tracks and also the Whitehall street tracks and join with the Broad street tracks at the intersection of Mitchell street, which would be a great accommodation to the patrons of our lines and would avoid the delays which now frequently occur on Pryor and Alabama streets between Hunter and Whitehall.

The New Union Depot.

"One advantage to the traveling public which should not be lost sight of and one great reason why our company should have its line applied for over the viaduct is the generally accepted fact that a passenger station will soon be built on or near Mitchell street, and our lines will afford direct connection between that depot and the present union depot by its lines which intersect at Pryor and Alabama streets and at Pryor and Decatur streets and Loyd and Decatur streets.

"Much ado has been made by the other company over its proposed transfers, yet it is well known that at present it has but little to transfer to, having but one long stem line crossing the city, which does not reach the most important business streets. If its proposed transfers are to be delayed until it constructs a great system of street railroads, who can estimate when the benefit of transfers through that company will be had?

As to Transfers.

"It has been stated by officials of our company that a transfer system would eventually be practicable and advisable over its lines, when its service so increases as to avoid delays to passengers at transfer points, having regard, however, for the convenience of public travel, the growth of the city in population, as well as the rights and interests of the company.

"We note from the statements of representatives of the other company that its policy in regard to going over the viaduct into the western section seems to have suddenly changed.

"While it was thirty days later than our company in filing its application, it now seems to be in such a hurry that it cannot allow the committee time to go over the whole subject carefully in their own way without urging and spurring them on to greater haste in dealing with this problem. Inasmuch as the bridge will not be completed until the end of the year and as the other company was tardy in its application, it would seem that it could give to the committee having the matter under consideration the proper time to determine the applications without the criticism implied in the article or interview."

Mr. Amorous's Talk.

Mr. Amorous, when seen, had the following to say in reference to the franchise matter:

"Since we have filed our petition with the special committee of the city council asking for these franchises, we will, provided they are granted, extend our road through every ward in the city, affording our patrons rapid transit from every point. This system would not be effectual unless we could grant transfers. This we propose to do, not only to accommodate our patrons, but because we believe it will largely increase our receipts and encourage the people to ride more than they now do.

"I am a strong believer in the granting of transfers. Not only will it be profitable to the people, but also to the roads. I have always endeavored to make the Atlanta Railway Company a popular road among the people of Atlanta. We have done everything possible for the comfort of the passengers. The employees have been encouraged to take an interest in the road, and we always attempt to give good service. We give the employees time to eat their meals, furnish our cars with protectors for the motormen, and this, I believe, makes them appreciative of our efforts to help them as much as possible. The result of this is shown in the fact that we have the best set of employees in the city. I call attention to these things that the people where we intend to run our lines may know what to expect, in the event the city gives us franchises.

"The fact is, we stand ready to begin immediately the construction of the lines asked for by us, and we are ready to expend in the work fully $200,000, which we now have at our disposal, as soon as the franchises are granted. It is a matter for the people to decide whether they want an entirely new system of street railroads, and whether they want the benefit they would derive from the competition that our system will afford them. I understand the matter will be finally decided by the committee Tuesday. The meeting will be public and the citizens of Atlanta are invited to be present. We are willing to pay the city any reasonable amount for the franchise over the Mitchell street viaduct, and do not object to any other road being granted the same franchise. We are willing also to enter into a contract that will bind us to grant transfers on the lines we now own, or that we will build in the very near future, provided the franchises are granted."

IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

WHAT THE PEOPLE OF THREE STATES HAVE BEEN DOING THE PAST WEEK.

THE SOCIAL SIDE OF THE ROME CONVENTION.

Rome, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—The Hill City has well sustained its reputation for hospitality in the lavish way in which the visiting Daughters of the Confederacy have been entertained since their arrival up to the very moment of their departure. Between the sessions of the convention entertainments were arranged for every hour and many of the ladies of Rome kept open house during the entire convention. On Wednesday evening the Rome chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy entertained the visiting delegates and representatives of the various patriotic organizations of the city at a sumptuous banquet in the hall of the Masonic temple. The decorations were unusual in their elaborate detail, the profusion of flowers used and their artistic arrangement.

The center table was a poem in confederate colors, the red, white and red being evident in the arrangement of the floral designs as well as in the many silken flags. A bevy of beautiful young women served the visiting ladies, who were received by Mrs. Hallie Alexander Rounsaville, state president, and Mrs. H. Smith, the handsome and gracious president of the Rome chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Thursday evening the Daughters of the Confederacy were entertained by Professor and Mrs. Simmons at Shorter college. The entertainment was in the nature of a musicale, at which the visiting ladies had the pleasure of hearing for the first time the wonderfully sweet and powerful voice of Mrs. Simmons. She is one of the foremost vocalists in the south having received her musical education at Leipsic. The selections rendered by her were from several of the grand operas and brought out not alone the strength of her voice, but its exquisite cultivation.

Mrs. Simmons has received several pressing invitations to visit Atlanta this winter, where she will probably be heard in concert.

Preceding the formal evening entertainments there were a succession of private tea parties at the homes of Rome's prominent people. Among them one given Thursday evening by Mrs. H. Smith.

One of the most enjoyable occasions of the convention's social side was the musicale given Friday afternoon by Professor and Mme. Fortin at their college of music. Several of their pupils evidenced musical talent and training in their rendition of instrumental music. The Fortin orchestra was heard in splendid selections and is composed of the most prominent young people in Rome. The gem of the programme, however, was the violin solo, "Le Songe," by Simon, rendered by Professor Fortin. Unaccompanied by the piano, one was enabled to appreciate the mighty sweetness of violin music when the strings of the instrument are touched by artistic fingers and made to tell stories in the delicate musical strains that go straight to the human heart.

Another solo on the violin by Professor Fortin, accompanied by Mme. Fortin, was a selection from Chopin and evinced their artistic appreciation of the quiet sublimity that is the chief charm of that great composer's musical chef d'oeuvres.

Mrs. Arthur Sullivan, president of the Rome Woman's Club, entertained the visiting delegates Friday afternoon at an elegant reception in her new home, "Crest Hill," in East Rome. The home in its picturesque and lofty situation is one of the handsomest places in the south, while the lovely hostess in her graceful entertainment Friday afternoon well sustained the reputation of Rome for royal and old-fashioned southern hospitality.

She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. J. Lindsay Johnson, Mrs. Beulah S. Mosely, Mrs. Rounsaville, Mrs. Printup, Mrs. Cheney and many others of Rome's most prominent women.

After the reception at Mrs. Sullivan's home the visiting ladies enjoyed a drive to the Rome cemetery, considered one of the prettiest in the south. From the highest point, where is situated the confederate monument, the ladies appreciated that the beautiful little city well deserved the title of the Hill City. Much interest centers in the confederate monument, since it was erected by the women of Rome, members of the Memorial Association, of which Mrs. Alexander, the mother of Mrs. Rounsaville, was president. The beautiful inscription on the monument was composed by Mr. Hooper Alexander, of Atlanta.

Mrs. Helen Plane, Mrs. E G. McCabe, Miss Martha Goode, Miss Genie West and Miss Isma Dooly, of the Atlanta delegation, were entertained during their stay in Rome by Mrs. Rounsaville at the Armstrong hotel. Mrs. Joseph Raines, Mrs. Anthony Murphy and Mrs. Charles Rice were entertained by Mrs. William Moore. Mrs. S. E. Gabbett was the guest of Mrs. Ethel Hillyer Harris. Mrs. Julia Icerson alton was the guest of Mrs. H. Smith and Mrs. Halie was the popular guest of Mrs. Lindsay Johnson. Miss Ellen Hillyer was entertained by Miss Bayard, one of the prettiest young women in Georgia.

Miss Mildred Rutherford and Mrs. Williams were the distinguished delegates from Athens receiving charming attention. Mrs. Branch and her brilliant daughter, Mrs. Sexton, of Savannah, ably represented that city and Mrs. Ida Evans Eve and Mrs. Jackson represented Augusta.

Miss Genie West, of Atlanta, was the recipient of many charming attentions in Rome and is a very patriotic young woman, who combines the causes of the past and the present, since she is secretary for the Atlanta chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy and at the same time one of the hardest workers in the Atlanta Relief Association for our soldiers.

Miss Edna Cain, of Summerville, was in Rome during the convention, and as usual, the center of an enthusiastic circle of admirers.

The next meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will be in Athens, on invitation of Mrs. Mildred Rutherford.

ISMA DOOLY.

AUGUSTA, GA.

Augusta, Ga., October 16.—(Special.)—The social season has not been inaugurated yet in Augusta for the winter. Many of our people are absent from the city during the month of September, and moving day in Augusta is the 1st of October. People who live in rented houses are just getting things to rights in their new homes, and social functions have been at a discount up to the present time. Barring the weekly meetings of the whist clubs among the ladies, and the up-jenks clubs among the young people, there have been no occasions bringing society people together. In the absence of the ordinary gatherings of society, a number of young people enjoyed a novel entertainment the other evening in the shape of a 'possum hunt. A party of twenty-five young men and women, duly chaperoned, rode out into the country seven miles from the city, some in traps and some on bicycles. At the edge of the woods the vehicles were left in care of two of the party, and the balance with dogs and torches and axes made their way into the swamp and through the tangled underwood in search of the festive 'possum. Two hours were spent in following the dogs tumbling over prostrate trees, falling into gulleys and cutting down trees, but no 'possum was secured. Upon their return to the vehicles the entire party was in excellent condition for the tempting lunch that was spread, and after doing full justice to this they enjoyed the return ride to the city.

On last Wednesday night the Up-Jenks Club complimented Miss Sue Steiner Hook, of Atlanta, with a match game in her honor. Miss Carrie Clark was the hostess of the evening, and a progressive feature with prizes was introduced into the game. Instead of the whole company being seated at one large table, there were four at each of a number of small tables. The couples played against each other and the winners progressed up to the head table as in progressive euchre. Miss Clark is an accomplished amateur photographer and instead of punching the cards when games were won or lost, the winner's card was decorated with a small photographic head of her next partner. The first prize was a framed picture of all the members of the Up-Jenks Club previously taken in group by Miss Clark. This Miss Hook was fortunate enough to win, and will carry home with her to Atlanta as a pleasant souvenir of her visit. During her stay in Augusta she has been the guest of Miss Clark and of her sister, Mrs. E. B. Hook.

An interesting social event of the week was the marriage of Miss Alice Carr to Mr. E. C. Lanneau on Wednesday at 1 o'clock. The bride was the attractive daughter of Mr. H. W. Carr and the groom a popular business man of Charleston. It was a home wedding and the ceremony was performed by Father McMahon, of St. Patrick's church. After a delightful wedding breakfast enjoyed by the bridal party, Mr. and Mrs. Lanneau took their departure for their Charleston home.

Circulation Bad.

Blood Impoverished, Heart Weak, Pulse Irregular, Appetite Gone, Strength Impaired? If Any or All of This is True, You Should Take

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure,

The Great Heart and Blood Tonic.

Scarcely a day passes that we do not read an account of the sudden death, from heart disease, of some prominent person, who was stricken down without warning, and while apparently in the best of health and bodily vigor. Your turn may come next. You may not die suddenly, but if your heart is not toned up and strengthened, your circulation improved and your stomach regulated other troubles will carry you off. Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure will do all these and more. It is a great blood tonic, purifying, vitalizing and enriching it, and sending the elements of health and strength to every nerve, organ and tissue.

"For years I suffered with shortness of breath, severe pains in my left side and shoulder. I had frequent smothering spells, and was troubled a great deal with gas on my stomach. I had been treated by a physician, but to no avail, and I decided to try Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. After using a number of bottles I was greatly improved in health. My appetite soon returned, those smothered feelings disappeared, and the pain left my side and shoulder. I have gained in flesh and strength, and although 81 years old, feel better than I have before in many years.

"MRS. DORLASKA REED, "Moravia, N. Y."

"After suffering for forty years with heart trouble I became so bad last autumn that everybody thought I must die. I could not lie down and slept in my chair. I coughed a great deal, had no appetite for food, was troubled with flatulency and my feet and hands were cold all the time. My heart would flutter and thump—sometimes slow and heavy, then fast and light—and sometimes I could not feel my pulse beat. A friend recommended Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine, and after using several bottles of each I am pleased to say that I feel perfectly well.

"GEO. R. HURD, Monroe, Mich."

"I had most severe pains around my heart and would faint and fall wherever I happened to be. Sometimes these fainting spells would last an hour. I could not sleep at night for the pain in my heart. I visited my sister and her husband, who was taking Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, advised me to try it. I did so, and after using one-half bottle could see an improvement. The result of that visit is that today I am entirely cured of my heart trouble.

"MRS. W. C. COREY, Watkins, N. Y."

FIXING THE TOWER FOR THE PRISONERS

The Old Jail Will Be Deserted About November 1.

PRISON UNIFORMS TO BE GRAY

Sheriff Nelms Will Make His Home in the Tower.

NO MORE INSPECTION BY THE PEOPLE

Estimated That 15,000 People Visited the Tower Last Week—Number of Prisoners To Be Transferred.

Although the new jail is closed to public inspection, it will not be occupied until November 1st.

"I am now told," said Sheriff Nelms yesterday, "that the new jail will be ready for me by the 1st of November. I was told a short while ago that it would be turned over to me yesterday, and you see how it is. I went to the jail yesterday and found that the cooking apparatus was not ready and none of the beds had been fixed. I hope I will get in the Tower on the 1st of next month."

On Saturday the Tower was closed and there will be no more inspection by the public. Last week fully fifteen thousand people visited the prison.

One hundred and seventy uniforms have been ordered for the prisoners who are to occupy the Tower. One hundred of these were paid for by the county and seventy-five by the sheriff for use by the United States prisoners. The uniforms will be gray, much resembling the uniforms worn by the confederate soldiers, as they are made of jeans. With each pair of trousers and jacket there will be a white cotton shirt.

All prisoners will not be forced to don these prison garbs, but only those who are wearing clothes that are not clean and which will be deemed unfit for the new prison. When a prisoner is dressed in prison clothes his own will be taken off, laundered and put away to be returned when he leaves the jail.

Two hundred tin pans have been ordered with double trays with which the prisoners will be fed.

Sheriff Nelms will move into the Tower with his family as soon as the place is ready for occupancy. His family consists of himself, wife, three children and mother. He will use as a residence the front rooms to the Tower, which are elegantly fitted up.

The sheriff will have an office at the Tower as well as at the courthouse and will spend much of his time in the prison.

"The Tower is a rather complicated affair and it will take some hard work to get its management systematized," said the sheriff yesterday. "I propose to give it my close personal attention. With the prison proper, the offices, the cookroom, the laundry, the engine rooms, lights, heating apparatus, etc., to look after, there will be a great deal for a man to superintend, and I will do my best to see that nothing goes wrong."

When the prisoners are transferred from the old to the new jail there will be about sixty state prisoners and about eighty revenue prisoners. There are at present over 100 state prisoners in the old jail, but many of these will be released or sent to the chaingang before the Tower is ready for them.

Flanagan will be the most notable of the prisoners transferred, and he has asked questions about the Tower and has expressed satisfaction at the prospect of better quarters.

The moonshiners are not so jubilant over the contemplated change, for they will not get as much sunshine as they now enjoy. The old jail has been so crowded that the revenue prisoners have been given the liberty of the yard very frequently; but at the Tower they will have only a corridor in which to exercise and their sunshine must come through grated windows.

Mr. George W. Pierce, the machinist who has looked after the visitors who visited the jail during the past week, says he is glad the public inspection is over.

"While I took pleasure in showing the people over the building," he said, "yet there was always danger of some one getting hurt or mischievous boys doing damage. There were so many children that I hourly expected to hear of some accident. When the Tower was open at night, you know, we thought it advisable to have a few policemen on hand to keep the boys from playing pranks, as they would blow through tubes, ring bells, fool with the elevator and turn out the lights. However, it all passed over without anything unpleasant and the people have been given an opportunity to see Fulton county's fine prison and I don't suppose there is any finer in the country."

Mr. Pierce estimated the crowds at about fifteen thousand and said he wouldn't be surprised if it reached twenty thousand.

By the 1st of November the Tower will probably be occupied and the old jail, which the grand juries have roasted annually for the last fifteen years, will be a thing of the past.

Mayor Collier and County Commissioner Adair, both of whom were largely instrumental in securing the building of the new jail, visited it yesterday and expressed themselves as pleased with the building.

PREACHING TO MOONSHINERS.

Unique Religious Services at County Jail Yesterday—A Scene in the Jail Yard.

A double religious service was held at the county jail yesterday afternoon. Out in the yard to the prison a sermon was preached to the moonshiners and afterwards a sermon was delivered to the inmates of the prison where the state prisoners are confined.

The service in the yard was unique in its character. About sixty moonshiners were seated in a square on low wooden benches, while the young men who were holding the services stood beneath a shed under which wood is kept.

A few of the moonshiners held hymn books and attempted to keep up with the singing. They were all more or less attentive to the reading of the Bible and to the delivery of the sermon.

Off in a corner of the yard, while the services were going on, were three moonshiners busily engaged in writing a letter back home. It took all three to write one short epistle and the man who was putting down the words labored hard with a short bit of a pencil which he kept in his mouth the most of the time. This trio seemed to care more about the liberty of the body than the freedom of the soul. Not even religion could woo them from the memory of the old mountain home and the fresh air and the green hills.

The moonshiners sat out in the sunshine and a strange coincidence was the singing of a hymn by the negroes on the inside of the jail immediately after the services to the moonshiners was concluded. The hymn selected by the negroes was: "Let a Little Sunshine In."

DR. DONALD TAYLOR DIES AT THE FORT

Young Surgeon Passes Away After Long Illness of Fever and Peritonitis.

GREATLY ADMIRED AT POST

His Colleagues Meet and Pass Resolutions of Regret and Sympathy.

HIS DEATH WAS DUE TO OVERWORK

The Funeral Services Will Be Held at the Barracks This Morning at 10 O'clock—Interment at Post.

Dr. Taylor, acting assistant surgeon, and son of Major Taylor, passed away last Saturday night.

DR. DONALD A. TAYLOR, ACTING assistant surgeon at Fort McPherson and son of Major Blair D. Tailor, died of peritonitis at the residence of his father, at the post, late Saturday night.

The news of Dr. Taylor's death, which reached the city yesterday, was received with surprise and deep regret by his friends here, many of whom did not know of his illness and were unprepared for the sad announcement that came so unexpectedly.

Dr. Taylor had been in ill health for two months, brought about mainly by his untiring efforts for his patients, in whose behalf he worked night and day. He was first taken down with typhoid fever, contracted, it is said, from close attention to his wards, where many fever patients were under his care. In this condition he continued his work for days, until finally exhausted he was compelled to take to his bed. From fever the symptoms of his case turned into peritonitis only a few days ago, but it was not until Saturday morning that Dr. Taylor was in a precarious condition.

Saturday morning a change for the worse set in and Mrs. Taylor, the mother of the young physician, and also his sister, who were in Virginia, were telegraphed for.

At noon Saturday the physicians in attendance believed the patient to be slightly improved, but toward evening he began to sink again and it was soon seen that he could not last through the night. At 10:15 o'clock Saturday evening the end came quietly and peacefully.

Mrs. Taylor and her daughter did not arrive in the city until yesterday morning, and both were grief stricken at the sad news that waited them.

The funeral service will be held at the post this morning at 10 o'clock, and the interment will be made temporarily in the barracks. Later the body will be taken to Virginia for interment.

The following pallbearers, appointed from among the stewards of the hospital, who were closely associated with Dr. Taylor in his work, will meet at the residence this morning: Stewards Haines, Johnson, Stephenson, Oltman, Williams, Greene, Wartz and Private Havens. An honorary escort composed of the following officers will also attend the remains: Captain T. F. Forbes, Captain Purviance, Captain Flagg, Captain Partello, Lieutenants Martin, Jarvis and Sharier.

Dr. Donald A. Taylor was in his twenty-fifth year, and despite his youth, was considered one of the competent physicians at the post. He was a graduate of the Atlanta Medical college, and also of the medical school of the University of Virginia, where he took a splendid stand.

In the early part of June of this year he was appointed an acting assistant surgeon at Fort McPherson, and was placed in charge of the second row of hospital tents, where his hard and conscientious work in behalf of his patients was commended on every hand.

When the second row of tents was removed Dr. Taylor was placed in charge of hospital A, one of the most responsible positions at the post.

Dr. Taylor was greatly admired by all who came in contact with him at Fort McPherson, and especially the hospital corps men learned to respect and admire him. One of the handsomest designs placed on the casket was that one representing the love and friendship of the members of the hospital corps.

At a meeting of the medical staff of the United States general hospital, at Fort McPherson, held yesterday, the following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, it has been our sorrow to lose from our midst our friend and colleague, Dr. Donald A. Taylor, acting assistant surgeon United States army; and

"Whereas, his premature death has been in consequence of disease contracted in the faithful performance of his duties:

"Resolved, That we, the members of the medical staff of the United States general hospital, Fort McPherson, do hereby express our esteem of our late friend and colleague, and our regret for his sudden loss.

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of our deceased colleague, in expression of our heartfelt sympathy with them in their bereavement; and further, be it

"Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be furnished to the following journals for publication: The Army and Navy Register, The Army and Navy Journal, The Journal of the American Medical Association, The Atlanta Constitution.

"For the staff: Signed, Wallace Neff, major and brigade surgeon U. S. V.; Charles E. B. Flagg, captain and assistant surgeon U. S. V.; J. C. Garlington, acting assistant surgeon U. S. A."

CHIEF MANLY TO HIS MEN.

Makes Members of the Police Force Short Talk on Their Appearance in New Winter Uniforms.

Chief Manly made a short talk to the patrolmen yesterday. The members of the department appeared in their winter uniforms for the first time this season.

"I wish to say to the men," said the chief, "that I am well pleased with their appearance. I am proud to know that I am today at the head of as fine a body of police as can be found on this continent. I wish to say further in this connection I have heard that some of the men are apprehensive about their re-election. I want them to have their minds at rest, for I shall make it my pleasant duty to use all of my power and influence to have every man retained on the force who has done his duty. Do your duty in the future as you have done it in the past and you need have no fear. I do not think it will ever be the policy of the police board to turn off old men who are good officers for new and untried ones."

The chief personally inspected the members of each watch. He found all the men fully equipped and ready for the winter.

The patrolmen and officers will from now forward wear their regular winter uniforms with the dark blue winter helmet.

You will not know how much good Hood's Sarsaparilla will do you until you try it. Buy a bottle today and begin to take it.

AT THE THEATERS.

At the Columbia theater tonight Lincoln J. Carter and Hal Reid's picturesque play, "Knobs o' Tennessee," will receive its first presentation before an Atlanta audience. Mr. Hal Reid, well known as a splendid author and equally as good an actor, will portray the leading character. He will be supported by Miss Margaret Elsmere and a capable company. It is said no pains have been spared by the authors to give the play a beautiful stage setting and Lincoln Carter has furnished a carload of special scenery to give the production the necessary atmosphere.

The Nashville American, commenting on the performance, said:

"Another good audience saw last night's presentation and gave it a most favorable reception. The climaxes provoked storms of applause in their intensity, and the wild beauty and picturesqueness of the mountain scenery received admiring attention. The peculiar whistle used by the moonshiners as a signal was weirdly melodious. In the scene in which the younger Preston is killed the dead boy's dog finds his master lying lifeless upon the ground and runs around the body licking at the face and hands and feet, seeking recognition. The entire play is one to peculiarly interest from many standpoints and cannot fail to thrill the most indifferent spectator."

"Knobs o' Tennessee" will be seen Tuesday and Wednesday nights also, and at a special bargain matinee Wednesday afternoon.

Farce comedy is in the ascendant this season, and there are no other farce comedies with the fascination possessed by Charles H. Hoyt's. He was the first man to write this form of stage entertainment, and no one has equaled him since. Evans & Hoey's success, "A Parlor Match," which will be seen at the Grand Wednesday and Thursday for three performances, has been declared by critics and the public everywhere to be his very best. There is such an unbroken vein of clear humor running through it, and the story is at all times so clear and consistent, one experiences a satisfied feeling after seeing it that is not always the case with similar plays. The characters are all distinctly drawn, and entirely original. The red-headed book agent, the red-nosed tramp, the red-frocked innocent kid, the red-eyed Captain Kidd, the red-mouthed bulldog all belong to "A Parlor Match."

The company is said to be one of the very best that has yet appeared in the famous comedy. Mark Sullivan, Miss Edith Hoyt, Tom Browne, the whistler, the Olympia quartet and other prominent people and features are promised with this season's "A Parlor Match."

Ly on & Co.'s "Pick Leaf" Extra Smoking Tobacco does not make every mouth as sweet as a rose, but comes "mighty nigh"—does give every one a most delightful smoke. Try it.

ITALIANS PASSED THROUGH ATLANTA SATURDAY ON THE WAY TO PLANTATIONS IN NEW ORLEANS

"Lawd hab mercy!" exclaimed an antebellum negro, "Jes' look at dem Spaniels. Dat's w'at I say 'bout dese Nunited States; dey whips Cuby and den 'ports dese no 'count dagoes ter take de place of 'spectable cullud folks."

The cause of the negro's consternation was not an invasion from Cuba; but, owing to his ignorance of the Latin races, his fears had some grounds. As the Seaboard Air-Line train pulled into the depot at 3:30 Saturday afternoon, four coaches were occupied by Italian laborers and their families, direct from their native Italy, and destined for New Orleans. For fifty minutes the train remained in the carshed, and during that time the coaches occupied by the swathy foreigners were visited by dozens of people. To the spectator unfamiliar with the Italian in his native garb, before he has adopted the customs and language of this country, the scene was an interesting one. Passing through the dimly lighted cars and looking at the dark faces and outre costumes, one instinctively likened the scene to one of Dore's grotesque creations. In all there were 189 of them, of all ages, sizes and descriptions; their picturesque head dresses and clothing consisted of cheap material containing all the colors of the rainbow, the predominating shades being bright red and orange. Men and women alike puffed cigarettes, the smoke of which, mixed with an all pervading odor of garlic, smote the sensitive nostrils of the spectator with the effect of an electric shock.

None of the emigrants seemed to know or care where they were going, the sole thought of each seeming to be the care of his or her scanty personal effects, which they guarded with zealous care. Some of them had small canvas grips, but the majority carried large gunny sacks which contained their entire belongings. Only one of them, a picturesque individual with silver rings in his ears, who rejoiced in the name of Jesus Pre, could speak a word of English. He informed the reporter that he came from Naples and that he was going to New Orleans, where, to use his own words, he intended to "cutta da sugar canna."

The reporter having heard of the romantic beauty of the Neapolitan peasant girls, searched the car in vain for one whose looks filled the conventional description. Not one was to be found, although there were some ten or fifteen girls in the party. None of them, judged from exterior appearances, were in speaking terms with soap and water, and all of them had a look of premature old age.

The personal effects of the Italians were varied and peculiar. Some of them carried musical instruments of different kinds; others clung tenaciously to chairs and similar articles of household use, while a few, evidently poorer than their fellows, seemed to be possessed of absolutely nothing save a huge loaf of black bread, on which they intended to subsist until they reached New Orleans. If by chance the visitor to the train happened to displace any of the heterogeneous paraphernalia which blocked the aisles, he was rewarded with a guttural growl from some dark-visaged owner and his thoughts instinctively flew to stilettos and the society of the Mafia. Otherwise the picturesque strangers were brimming over with good humor, and endeavored as best they could to answer the numerous questions put to them.

Some of the names of the emigrants were suggestive of history and tradition, for instance: By a queer coincidence, a couple who gave their names as Francesco and Paola were sitting side by side. The man was engaged in the unromantic occupation of smoking an exceedingly rank pipe, while the woman was vainly endeavoring to quiet a crying child. Leonado, Crispi, Carrelli, Sansoni and Antonino were some of the other names.

Mr. George W. Allen, of the Atlanta and West Point, who looked after the welfare of the Italians while in the city, had his hands full. In his efforts to make them understand him he adopted the dialect of the local fruit dealer, and says that he is satisfied it would take only one more similar experience to enable him to speak the language fluently.

The trainload which passed through Saturday is only part of the large consignment of Italians, hailing from Naples, Genoa and other cities, who have been contracted with to work in the sugar plantations of Louisiana. Sugar planters claim that the Italian makes an excellent laborer, and hundreds have been imported direct from Italy.

Word comes from New Orleans that admittance has been refused the Italians, and it is likely they will be sent back to Italy.

BISHOP CANDLER TALKS OF HUMILITY

Bishop Candler Delivers an Able Sermon at Merritts Avenue Church.

SPOKE OF CHRIST'S HUMILITY

Lessons Taught on the Washing of the Disciples' Feet by the Savior.

DISCOURSE WAS A POWERFUL ONE

Rev. A. A. Marshall Preached at the Jackson Hill Baptist Church Yesterday Morning.

★ Bishop Candler delivered a strong sermon on humility at Merritts Avenue church yesterday morning. ★

AT MERRITTS AVENUE CHURCH Bishop W. A. Candler preached at the morning service. His text was Philippians second chapter, 5th to 12th verses inclusive. "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus."

The real subject of his discourse was that phase of the Savior's character shown in His humility. The morning lesson was upon the washing of the disciples' feet by the Master before the last sacrament. This exercise was disposed of in one sentence, showing that foot washing is not and was not intended as one of the ordinances of the church, because if an ordinance be established to illustrate humility one would be needed also for charity, liberality and the other and many graces that should adorn the Christian. The address was a beautiful, rugged and impetuous torrent of thought, logic, love and criticism. He said:

"Humility, such as only Christ could illustrate, is love for the lowest, a helpful uplifting love that reaches its almighty arm to the depths of humanity and raises it to the heights of glorified deity."

In the reach of his analysis he described clearly and forcefully the elements of this love and impaled upon the blade of his criticism all the shams and pretenses that would imitate Christ in an unworthy and mistaken spirit. The mighty workings of the Savior in the humility that the world cannot understand; the touching of hearts by methods that can be used only in Christ's proper way and spirit such as pretenders need not try; and the great blending of heart beatings of God and humanity, of Christ and His people, even the lost and the outcasts, were fully and beautifully portrayed.

Bishop Candler took the high and tenable ground that the cure for the ills of the world is to convert the world to Christ. He said: "In loving Christ all such questions as 'How shall we reach the masses?' 'What shall we do with the vicious?' 'What methods are best with the children?' and others that are usually considered by people in conventions assembled, would solve themselves. No need for spectacled wiseacres, who have no humility in themselves, but who are wrapped in their own pride and steeped in phariseeism, to discuss these problems. The one answer to them all is to love the masses, the vicious, the lost, the children, all alike as Christ loved them. Let the helping hands that reach to them come not in condescension or in any spirit save Christ's own love. Humility, simplicity, love, plain and practical, honest and genuine, will reach and save the world."

The sermon was powerful in its reach, clear in its illustrations, beautiful in its whole spirit. Dr. Candler seemed to breathe the whole force of his life into one effort to reach and awake his people to God's love.

SERMON AT CONGREGATIONAL

At the Central Congregational church Rev. Frank E. Jenkins preached a scholarly and forceful sermon from the text, "And the child grew, and waxed strong, filled with wisdom, and the grace of God was upon him."—Luke ii, 40.

Rev. Mr. Jenkins said:

"The child referred to here is the child Jesus. We are told that He grew and waxed strong and the grace of God was on Him. He is in His home in Nazareth, developing naturally as a boy. Undoubtedly the strongest influence of all in his education is that from His mother.

"In my own mind Jesus did not yet know Himself. His mind was filling with questions.

"Jesus Christ, in the fullness of his humanity, stands before the world as the man perfect, showing us in power and in spirit how we ought to live.

"Christ is not only a representative and example for manhood.

"He comes before us not as a mythological character, but the idealization of true manhood. He did not lay aside his manhood. He united in his manhood the masculine and the feminine.

"We have been content in our Christian churches to be far behind the educational attention of our public schools.

"Here is a field for Christian service. Most of the missionaries are turning their attention to the children. You can revolutionize people if you can get hold of the children.

"There is the chief field for Christian service.

"Jesus was taught the scriptures, He was taught at His mother's knee, He was in a Christian home and naturally graduated into the synagogue.

"More of the actual knowledge of the world is gained by the age of thirteen. More is done to shape the human character before the age of thirteen than any time afterwards. If neglected in early age then the revelation of God's truth comes in later life as a revolution.

"What a shame it is when a boy gets his influence from his mother alone. So often the father's place is not there and the father's influence is not felt.

"Are we not ready to seek for better things in our church life? To build for a future of power and blessedness?"

DR. MARSHALL ON IDLERS.

The subject of the sermon by Rev. A. A. Marshall at the Jackson Hill Baptist church yesterday morning was taken from Proverbs xiii 4. The speaker began by saying:

"If I were an artist I could by a few strokes of pencil or brush give a clearer idea of what is meant by the two classes—lifters and leaners—than I could in whole sentences of discourse.

"The scene I would paint would be a village railroad station. The train having just come in, the engineer clad in overalls, bearing on arm and hand and face the soil of grease and dust—the evidence of honest toil—the fireman shoveling coal into the glowing furnace, the baggage men straining every muscle as they lift the heavy sample trunks in the baggage car, the expressmen hurrying to and fro, passengers carrying boxes and grips as they ascend the platform, and in the midst of this busy scene of lifters and toilers I would paint, leaning leisurely against the walls of the station house or propped against adjacent box cars, a company of lazy loungers and leaners with arms folded and looking as calm and placid as a statue of patience on a pedestal.

"These two classes of lifters and leaners of workers and idlers, of fighters and talkers, of the diligent and the sluggard are to be found in the stores, on the farms, in the shops and factories, in the schoolroom, in the churches.

"One of the saddest pictures in life is that of some mere idler and leaner sitting down on the curbstone denouncing society and cursing God and seeking to destroy government, all because he has failed to improve his opportunities and chosen in life to be a leaner rather than a lifter.

"The world presents a sad picture of men who are down in the mire and need to be lifted up. There is often a kick instead of a lift for the man that is down. How true that all the neighbors are cousins to a rich man, but the poor man's brother even does not recognize him.

"One Gideon with three hundred earnest men is worth more than a whole army of Midianites, and one Dewey, with the cables cut, is worth more than a whole navy of admirals and commodores who were in communication with the board of strategy."

THE CITY SOLONS WILL MEET TODAY

Very Few Matters of Importance to Be Considered This Afternoon.

NEW PETITION FOR FRANCHISE

Consolidated Men Ask for Rights of Way on Mitchell Street.

BIG MASS MEETING TOMORROW NIGHT

Citizens of First Ward Will Meet To Discuss Car Lines—Mitchell Street Folk Oppose Franchises.

★ The city council will hold an unimportant session at the chamber of commerce this afternoon. ★

THE REGULAR MEETING OF COUNCIL this afternoon at the city hall does not give promise of anything of unusual interest. Very few committees have held meetings during the past week, and the franchise fight between the Consolidated and the Atlanta Railway companies is the main topic of interest in official circles just now.

Council will not consider this matter this afternoon. The Consolidated will present a petition asking for additional franchises, including a right of way on Mitchell street between Loyd and Broad, but this will merely be referred to the committee on electric and other railways without discussion.

It was expected that this committee, which has had the franchise matter under consideration for some time, would be ready to make a report at the meeting of council today, but at the last session of the committee it was decided to hold the matter over until another session of council. The committee will hold another meeting tomorrow afternoon, however, and it is said will prepare its report then. In this case it will be two weeks before the report reaches council unless a special session is called for this purpose, and this is not probable.

Great interest is being manifested by the west siders in the mass meeting to be held at Mays's hall in the first ward tomorrow night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the franchise matter. It is probable a large crowd will be present and that the citizens will indicate the course they wish to be pursued in this important issue. As council is government for the good of the people in its jurisdiction, the citizens there believe their wishes should be respected. It was the intention of some of the citizens of west Atlanta to roundly roast the electric railway committee for holding a secret session last week, but as Chairman Rice has publicly announced there will be no more secret sessions it is probable nothing will be said about it at this meeting.

Both companies are now applying for franchises on Mitchell street. It is said a number of citizens residing on Mitchell street between Pryor and Capitol avenue have signed a petition asking that neither road be allowed to lay tracks on that thoroughfare. One of the main reasons assigned is that the street is too narrow to be continually blocked with cars. This petition will probably go to council this afternoon.

Today's session will likely be very short, as very little business of any importance is to be transacted. In fact, council will do very little from now until the first of the year, as there is very little money with which to make any appropriations.
